FIRST BIENNIAL MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR HIRAM W. JOHNSON.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
January 6, 1913.

To the Senate and Assembly:

In accordance with custom and the requirement of the Constitution, I herewith lay before you, and through you to the people, information touching the condition of the State, and recommend for your consideration such measures as I deem necessary and expedient.

been achieved, to carry forward as well as possible what remains incomplete, and to do what in your wisdom you deem yet essential.

After only two years it is difficult to realize that we are so short a time removed from a system which had grown up by many years of acquiescence. The system of the domination of the public service by special interests was so all-pervasive and so familiar that it was accepted even by many excellent men as part of an unchangeable order of things. Yet it was a system which was of course fatal to true popular government and to administrative efficiency, and which offered constant temptation and opportunity to worse than inefficiency. An incident in the government of the water front of the city of San Francisco vividly illustrates how far this system of private dominance of public service extended. The Harbor Commission of San Francisco are required by law to fix the rentals to be paid to those who occupy space belonging to the State. The schedule of rentals just prior to the present administration was really fixed by the very corporation which was the principal tenant of the State at the harbor, and was adopted only after consent of that company. This is perhaps a minor example of a condition which was then regarded as a matter of course, but which has now become, let us hope forever, impossible.

In the effort to eliminate that sort of influence, and to require of every public servant and governmental agency an undivided allegiance to the people, of course there was resistance to be overcome in almost every direction. The service of the State was filled with men many of whom had been accustomed to look, as the source of their power, to a particular outside agency, rather than to the government and the people of the State. But after two years of continuous effort, and with the tremendous aid rendered by the last Legislature, without which it could not have been accomplished, it may be to-day asserted that the public service of California is maintained solely for the public benefit, and that the allegiance of every official is now wholly to the State of California. It is not asserted that all the needed administrative reforms are yet complete; it is not claimed that every public institution in this State is as well managed as ultimately it may be; but it is confidently insisted that the management of almost every public institution in this State to-day has improved in method and efficiency, and that in none to-day is permitted fealty or allegiance to any other power than the power of the people of the State.

The platform to which a majority of you subscribed at the recent legislative convention, and I quote it as a concise statement and not in partisan spirit, contained the following summary of the accomplishments of the past two years, the majority of which, it may be added, were due to the enactments of your immediate predecessors in the Legislature, and to the favorable vote of the people on propositions submitted to them:

> "A new spirit has entered the public life of the State. In two years, California has made greater progress in legislation and government than was ever before made in a like period by an American state, and has set a new standard for other States and the Nation. Political power has been taken from the political bureau of a private corporation and restored to the people; boss rule has been made permanently impossible by direct nominations, direct legislation and the recall. The suffrage has been extended to women. The ballot has been made shorter and less partisan, and judicial nominations have been made nonpartisan. Public servants have been appointed and retained for efficiency and faithfulness; the business administration of the State Department has been reformed through the activities of the State Board of Control, corruption and favoritism have been eliminated, and economy and efficiency enforced. The Railroad Commission is for the first time exercising the powers over railroads intended to be conferred upon it when it was established in 1879, and has extended a like control to other public service corporations. The laws of criminal procedure have been simplified, a reformatory for first offenders is assured by the purchase of a site therefor, the prisons have been made self-supporting and prisoners are being taught useful trades without injurious competition with free labor. Much beneficial legislation for social and industrial justice has been passed, including a workmen's compensation act and an eight-hour day for woman, a full crew and sixteen-hour trainmen's bill, bills against the pay check evil, and repealing the sailors' enticement law, prohibiting night work for minors under eighteen years, and protecting electrical workers. Laws for the better conservation of the natural resources of the State were passed and an inventory of those resources is being made by the Conservation Commission as a basis for the intelligent enactment of needed additional legislation. Counties have been given a larger measure of local self-government and a local option law has been passed. A state system of good roads has been inaugurated. Race track gambling has been effectively suppressed. These and many other beneficial measures are the achievements of the administration and the Legislature of California in the past two years."

This is the record, made by your predecessors and approved by yourselves, which it is now yours to emulate, and to supplement and complete.

The general policy that has characterized the present state government is one that has not been partisan in character, and to which men of all political predilections, and particularly those of different parties in the Legislature, have contributed was less work done by the Railroad Commission of the State of California than has been done by the present Railroad Commission in any one month of its existence. Probably during the thirty-two years of the existence of the Railroad Commission prior to 1911, approximately one hundred complaints were presented to that Commission, and in less than two years, to the new Commission, approximately two thousand complaints have been presented. The Commission has acted with such justice, fairness and ability, that it has won the respect and regard of nearly all of those whose interests have come within its jurisdiction. It is impossible even to recapitulate the accomplishment of this Commission. It has investigated express rates, readjusted railroad rates to accord with the long and short haul clause, reduced freight rates into and out of the San Joaquin Valley, between Los Angeles and San Pedro, Los Angeles and Imperial Valley, between Bakersfield and the oil fields, reduced Pullman seat fare between San Francisco and Los Angeles, reduced demurrage, restored lower telephone rates in one hundred and two towns, reduced many thousand passenger, freight and express rates upon informal complaints, improved train service, reduced rates on raisins and dried fruits from San Joaquin and from Sonoma and Mendocino counties, given all children the benefit of half fare on all street railways, previously extended only to school children; required the erection of new depots, examined and authorized stock and bond issues approximating thirty millions of dollars, and at last has become the arbiter between the people on the one hand and the great public service corporations upon the other, dealing justly with each, but with firmness insisting upon the performance of the duties of each.

It may be said that the Public Utilities Act of the State of California compares favorably with any similar act in the Union, and it may be said of this Commission, now as well a Public Utilities Commission, that its record, as demonstrated by its accomplishments, is second to no similar commission in all this Nation. There are older commissions in some of the states, dealing with these subjects—commissions that in the past have been suggested as models—but to-day, throughout the United States, the Railroad Commission or Public Utilities Commission of the State of California is recognized as among the foremost, and in the amount of work and efficiency, I doubt if any compare with it. The object of one of the constitutional amendments adopted in 1911 by the people, was, as stated during the campaign, to maintain for the longest possible time the present attitude of the State toward the railroad and public service corporations, and to give ample opportunity for the demonstration of a system of regulation, of just, speedy and summary determination, where individuals were concerned on the one hand and great corporations on the other. When the amendment to the Constitution was submitted only a little over a year ago, it was thought doubtful if all that was contemplated as the work of the Railroad Commission could be so far advanced in the brief term of one executive as to have demonstrated to the people the efficacy of such a Commission, and its necessity for the protection of the people. Happily the personnel of the Commission has been such, its industry has been so indefatigable and its ability so pronounced, that in the very brief period that has elapsed the people probably already fully understand not only its value to them, but its absolute necessity.

I feel that I need not bespeak for this Commission your co-operation.

II.

BOARD OF CONTROL—CENTRALIZATION OF SUPERVISION.

Best results are obtained governmentally when the head held responsible is in closest touch with all that transpires. After a careful survey, it was determined at the last session of the Legislature that there should be some centralized authority in constant touch with the various institutions of the State and their business policy, and which should be one of the arms of the executive head of the State. Accordingly, was created the Board of Control. It was hoped that through this Board immediately at hand would be available all information concerning the business management of the various state institutions. The Board was designed to exercise a supervisory control and management over the fiscal affairs of public institutions and to install a uniform system for the management of the State's business. The Board of Control was duly appointed, and entered upon its duties. It has more than justified itself. In a brief period it has modernized and immensely improved the business management of all of the institutions. It has acquired an experience now invaluable to the State which will enable it to go forward with its duties in the future with even greater precision than in the past. It has enabled the government of the State to be in immediate touch with the business management of each particular institution. It has saved the State hundreds of thousands of dollars, has put in operation, where possible, uniform systems of accounts, and to-day the business of the State in its public institutions, for the first time in the history of the State, is being conducted on a business basis, exactly as would be desired by any private enterprise. When you recall that the accounts of our state hospitals had not been audited in fourteen years until the installation of the Board of Control, the laxity of former methods will be apparent. The accounts of all of these institutions have now been audited, a uniform system of accounting has been instituted in four, and in the others will be at the earliest possible moment. It is no exaggeration to

III.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT BOARD.

The policy adopted by the State two years ago that the burden of accident should not fall wholly upon him who is least able to bear it, but should be wisely distributed, has come now to be the policy in many states of the Union, and the Federal Government itself. Neither the desirability nor the righteousness of this policy is longer questioned, and while, in specific instances, it is difficult thoroughly to work out the purpose and design of such acts, they are now accepted by every modern and humane state.

One of the chief difficulties that has arisen in California has been because of the rapacity of insurance companies. The rates of insurance seem to have been extortionate, and in many instances, prohibitive. In this sort of greed, however, insurance companies have over reached themselves because, if we are to continue the policy that we have adopted in respect to industrial accidents, it will be necessary for the State itself to provide the necessary insurance. The Industrial Accident Board reports to me that the Washington scheme of insurance is not approved by them, but that they do approve the creation of a state insurance fund, in order that the State may furnish insurance to those who desire it for their protection. I strongly urge upon you, if the industrial accident law is to continue to be a part of the policy of the State of California, that you take the necessary means for providing for a state insurance fund.

Complaints have been numerous in relation to the law, and mainly from one source—the farmers. It has been argued by the farmers that they ought not to be within the purview of the law because, first, the very nature of their work renders it impossible for them to discriminate in employing individuals, and the very nature of those who engage in their work renders discrimination impossible. Farmers think, therefore, inasmuch as they must have labor at a particular time, hastily, that they should not be subject to liability for accident; and again they insist that they cannot distribute the cost of protection, insurance, etc., in their business, because they do not, and can not fix the price of their commodities, the price being fixed in other markets and, therefore, that the theory by which the burden of the accident shall be cast upon the business and ultimately upon the community is untenable as applied to them. I find, however, that this latter argument may be made in favor of some other business as well. Thoroughly do we believe in the policy of this law, and rather than sacrifice that policy, we would be willing to eliminate the farmers from its provisions. Nevertheless, I cannot but believe that this elimination will be a step backward, and particularly do I think this will be so if the State furnishes cheap insurance.

IV.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION.

The Conservation and the Water Power commissions have practically concluded their work, and have presented a most valuable report of their investigations within the past two years. Their recommendations are embodied in certain bills which will be presented to you. The data which has been supplied to the State by the conservation commissions will be of great and lasting value. The bill relating to water and water power presented by the conservation commissions is a measure of very great importance concerning which, in the future, if deemed advisable, I shall again communicate with you.

V.

IMMIGRATION COMMISSION.

With the opening of the Panama Canal, now so near at hand, new problems will confront us. If the expectations of the transportation companies and of those familiar with the subject are realized, much of the immigration which now wholly finds itself upon the Atlantic shore will be distributed to the Pacific coast, and there will be brought to the State of California an extraordinary increase in population, presenting new and difficult questions. It has ever been the boast of our State that we have not within it any real, pressing want. We have never had the awful problems presented to us that the congested centers of the East have there presented. A wise forethought would endeavor to pervent such conditions in the West, and the experience of to-day of the congested centers of the East should be sufficient warning to all who are charged with the duty of providing for the future. With those of us who have dealt at all with the subject, our hope and our dream are that we may prevent in California the human congestion that has occurred in the populous centers of the East, and that by the adoption of those measures which experience and wisdom shall dictate, we may be relieved of the dread and the misery of the problem of the East. Accordingly, in August of this year, I appointed what we termed an Immigration Commission, composed of members who had had experience with the subject and who had devoted many years of thought to the solution. This Commission, of course, serves

BLUE SKY LAW.

Hon. Max Thelen, one of the members of the Railroad Commission, recently investigated the Blue Sky law of Kansas, and the efforts being made in various states for similar enactments. His report has been filed with the Railroad Commission in which he says:

> "The Blue Sky law of Kansas is a law designed to put out of business in Kansas, the promoters whose promises were as limitless as the blue sky. Under this law, with certain exceptions, no corporation may sell stocks, bonds or other securities in Kansas without having first secured a certificate stating that the provisions of the law have been complied with and granting permission to do business in the State."

The object of the law, of course, is to prevent wild-catting, and to protect the gullible part of our public from investing in those stocks or bonds which have no real foundation, but which hold out to the investor the hope of impossible returns. In conversation with Governor Stubbs of Kansas not long since, he stated that the law had been of inestimable value to his state and had saved many hundreds of thousands of dollars, and had saved it, too, to those who most needed the saving. I recommend to you a similar law for California, the administration of which, however, shall be placed under the Railroad Commission.

IX.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

This Bureau was established in 1883, but, until a recent date, was of little or no service. It is now in reality a bureau for labor. Working men and working women seek and obtain now advice and assistance there. The laws relating to children and to women, and to conditions surrounding toilers generally, are rigidly enforced. Those without funds to pay can obtain, through this Bureau, the wages due them, and the wage collection agencies have been practically driven out of existence by the Bureau. The Bureau, during the past year, has compelled the payment of sums from sixty cents to three hundred dollars, in the aggregate, $25,000. It has compelled employment agencies to refund in the aggregate $1,500 to those who were treated unjustly by such agencies. The child labor laws have received the strictest attention, and children have been practically eliminated from the factory, workshop and store, and school attendance, as a consequence, increased. During the past year more than thirty-three thousand complaints were filed with the Bureau, investigated and acted upon.

Some agitation has been indulged in in relation to a State Employment Bureau. If you should establish such a Bureau, it should be, in my opinion, under the jurisdiction of the Labor Commission.

X.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

The Legislature of 1911 provided for the appointment of three additional members of the Advisory Board, for the purpose of expending the eighteen millions of dollars voted for good roads in this State. So far as was possible these three additional members were constituted a Highway Commission, and they have had practically the sole charge of the construction of roads under the bond issue. The task, of course, is a very great one, and so extraordinary care was taken in the selection of the members of the Commission and of the Engineer. An organization, perhaps the most efficient ever created in this State by public or private enterprise, has been formed by the Highway Commission, and is actively engaged in the present work. The experts who examined this organization stated that it was the most efficient organization, with less overhead cost, of any organization they had ever before examined. The first duty of the Highway Commission, of course, was to determine the exact routes of the proposed new roads. This rendered innumerable hearings necessary, and occasionally a determination, as between particular localities. Decisions in particular instances were made after the most careful investigations and consideration and the exercise of the most conscientious judgment. With these decisions, of course, the Advisory Board, of which the Governor is the chairman, has not interfered. Appeals in some instances have been made, and some of the appeals have been quite persuasive, but in order that the highest degree of efficiency should be maintained, I have been compelled to adhere to the almost inflexible rule, that where commissions composed of men of high repute, in matters within their jurisdiction, after careful deliberation, have reached a conclusion, that conclusion should be final, and should not be interfered with by the Executive of the State, save in the most exceptional cases. Any other course would destroy the independence and initiative of Commissioners and would be substituting the judgment of the Executive for that of the Commissioners. The highest interests of the State have required that I should acquiesce, even though I should not hold the same view, in the determination of any commission entrusted with a specific duty who in the

this Legislature may keep the appropriations of the State at an extremely low figure, even as low as the Controller estimates those expenditures in his report, but to maintain the expenditures at such an amount will probably be done at the expense of the progress and advancement of the State, and to the detriment of those the duty of caring for whom devolves upon the State.

I take it, of course, that if it can be shown to the Legislature that the small householder is paying a larger percentage of taxes proportionately than the public service corporations, there will be no hesitancy in doing what may be just in the premises. If due investigation shall convince you that many of the public service corporations under the new system are not paying their just proportion of taxes, it will follow, of course, that the rates charged these corporations should be increased. Investigations of the justice or injustice of the present rates are now being conducted by the State Board of Equalization. These investigations, the Controller informs me, will, within a few days, be concluded, and will then, at once, be transmitted to you.

The question has arisen whether a legislative act increasing taxes can take effect at once or must await the period prescribed by the referendum requirements. This matter I have submitted to the Attorney General of the State, and he holds that an act increasing the rates would come within the exceptions stated in the referendum constitutional provision and could take effect at once. The concluding portion of the Attorney General's opinion is as follows:

> "For the foregoing reasons I am of the opinion that any act passed by the coming session of the Legislature changing, in accordance with their authority, the percentages designated in section 14 of article XIII of the Constitution would not be subject to the referendum clause of section 1 of article IV of said Constitution, but could be made effective the day of its adoption."

It is suggested to you, therefore, that you begin at once your investigations respecting the rates of taxation now fixed, and if, after due investigation, you find the situation to be as indicated herein, forthwith the rates now fixed be increased so that the corporations of the State will be required to pay their just share of taxes.

I have carefully refrained from suggesting any particular increase in rates or from even giving you the opinion we may have as to the increase in rates which should immediately be made. The reason I do not make to you a distinct recommendation of increase, specifically indicating the corporations and the amount of increase applicable to each, is because the Attorney General advises me that it is your duty to fix these rates only after due investigation and deliberation, and has suggested that increases in rates should be left to your adjudication without specific recommendation by me.

CORPORATION LICENSE TAX.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court of our State in Mulford vs. Curry very seriously interferes with the revenue heretofore derived from the corporation license tax by the State. The point involved in the particular case was whether or not as to foreign corporations the exaction of the corporation license tax was constitutional. The decision, however, apparently goes very much beyond the one point that seems involved in the particular action. The court, doubtless, felt constrained to hold under recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court, that our law in the instance referred to was unconstitutional. Contemporaneously with this decision the Supreme Court of Massachusetts in a similar case took the contrary view. The matter, however, presents itself from two angles: first, the necessity for the reformation of a law declared by our highest court invalid; and, secondly, and, from the more serious point, of the impairment of the revenue of the State.

I invite your attention to this particular subject in the hope that in some fashion, just to all, the amount denied to us by the decision may be supplied.

INHERITANCE TAX.

The Controller strongly presents the difficulties encountered in the administration of the law relating to the tax upon inheritances. He concludes his report on this subject thus:

> "And finally, it cannot be emphasized too strongly, that the real problem of inheritance tax laws is one of administration and not one of rates. Until the administration is made so efficient that the taxes legally due can be collected, to increase the rates would tend to reduce the revenues rather than increase them."

I suggest such legislation as will remedy the faults of administration suggested by the Controller, but I suggest in addition that the rates be increased in such proportion as you may determine to be just. The present tax has not been found to be onerous and it has fallen not upon the heavy laden and those least able to bear taxation, but upon those who can bear it without injury or real loss.

STATE UNIVERSITY

It is not too common nowadays for the head of a "state institution" to comment in any way upon the work of his colleagues in other institutions. Hence I feel quite justified in the more liberty of criticism and commendation that I may take in the following comments upon the recent inauguration and administrative developments in one of the younger state universities. In my opinion neither the interest nor the importance of the occasion justified the expenditure of the many thousands of dollars that the inauguration of the new president must have cost.

SCIENCE AND ART

Paterson.—The unwelcome proximity of the excellent work of our Public Park Art to the extraordinary display of the early summer exhibition of the Art Society of Patterson has called forth the appearance of continuing evidence and corroboration of the opinion concerning the relation of science and art which was expressed in this column two months ago by the Secretary of Paterson in their Municipal Council. To the artless eye trained by the study of nature only and not by the study of art, the exhibition of the Art Society is a disappointment. The impressionist work seems to be a mere caricature of nature, and the portraits and landscapes are painted in the manner of the academic school of the nineteenth century. The exhibition of the Art Society of Paterson is a sad commentary upon the failure of the Paterson Municipal Council to appreciate the value of the work of the Park Art Department. The Park Art Department is doing a work which is of real importance to the people of Paterson, and which is worthy of the support of the Municipal Council. The Art Society of Paterson is doing a work which is of no importance to the people of Paterson, and which is worthy of the contempt of the Municipal Council. must keep forever to take. While the cost of special privilege has been destroyed the power of its growth has diminished from the Department an unyielding vigilance and an unchanging purpose that the law must be obeyed."

At various times complaints have been made to me concerning rulings made by the Superintendent of Banks, but in every instance where investigation has been made that his ruling has been in accordance with the law that has been questioned. Of course it is apparent that if a drastic law like the Bank Act be vigilantly and rigorously enforced, necessary difficulties may arise, but the Superintendent of Banks has taken the position that what the law demands must be done and that to build our new State upon any other basis than one that has been adopted in many years of banking experience in this State would be a fatal blow to the progress of the State. The banking department is for two purposes, one of which is some of our banking frauds is contained. It is for the purpose of having banks themselves and it is proper that for the purpose of protecting depositors and the public at large. A banking department that would be administered only to satisfy bankers might desire, would be of little value to the State, and an efficient administration of a banking department must insist upon bankers obeying all the laws just as others are required to obey all the laws. I am prepared to admit that there are certain parts of the Bank Act which are obscure and which perhaps ought to be changed or repealed, but so long as these provisions remain just so long it is the duty of the Superintendent of Banks to enforce them, to insist upon the recommendations which he deems wisely suggested. The Bank Act, however, requires many recommendations, some of which will be submitted to you by the Superintendent of Banks and some by the legislative committee of the Bankers Association. But as we present it there is irritation or hostility to vigorous enforcement of the banking law itself must be changed and the attitude of the Superintendent of Banks toward that law. It is all well enough to talk of minor bankers upon technical points of procedure and about relaxing certain requirements and about forgetting other provisions, but to relax or forget for one set of bankers and to enforce for another is a system which cannot be recognized. Beyond all that is to be stressed that the law is designed for the protection of the public at large and of course violations or forgetfulness on any part of such law is an offense against the public at large.

I commend to you the amendments of the act which have been submitted and prepared by the Superintendent of Banks.

STATE PRISONS—REFORM SCHOOLS

We have two state prisons and two reform schools. The two reform schools in the past have been headquarters for the penitentiaries. It has happened too often that the inmate of the reform school has graduated from that institution only to begin in one of our state prisons. Fundamentally it seemed to me the management of these reform schools was erroneous and that if they could serve the highest purpose that is, educate young men into good citizens and graduate them as citizens into the state prisons, they ought to be abandoned. The theory on which reform schools were established in the past was that the children in these schools should be governed by fear and by force. The only question in this regard I believed to have been determined, and it was resolved therefore that we would venture an effort on a different direction with our young men and to treat them as children, by appealing to the best in them and by encouraging their self-respect and independence, and generally by removing the stigma of these schools as far as possible from our prisons and schools and thus by teaching initiative and independence

STATE HARBOR COMMISSION.

In no part of the government of the State did the old system make itself so manifest as at the harbor front at San Francisco, and, as illustrative of the conditions formerly existing there, I quote from a recent report of the Harbor Board:

"Nowhere in the administrative branch of the state government was the malign influence of that dominating corporation more conspicuously illustrated than in the condition and management of the San Francisco harbor. For over forty years, with infrequent intervals, not long enough to effect much of a reform, the Southern Pacific practically owned and operated the water front, and used it as a private piece of business property for the advancement of its own political and business interests.

"The evils of such a monopoly could not be set out in the limits at our command, though few things could be of more vital interest to the material advancement of the people of the State than a full knowledge and appreciation of the blighting effect of the control of the harbor and commerce of San Francisco Bay, which is the greatest single asset owned or possessed by the State of California, by a gigantic railroad system, which had a direct interest in the cramping and dwarfing of harbor development."

The present Harbor Commission, adopting the policy which has been that of the State during the past two years, has managed and operated the harbor of San Francisco without regard to special interests, but for all the people, and for the entire State of California. The harbor of San Francisco is self supporting. The Harbor Commission, and the work done under it, represent not only shippers in the city of San Francisco and vicinity, but represent the entire State, and particularly the great valleys of the State, which bring into the city of San Francisco, and over the wharves that are owned by the State of California, a tonnage annually of millions of dollars.

The present Board of Harbor Commissioners admittedly is the most efficient that has ever administered the affairs of the harbor. Its work has been undertaken upon a greater scale than ever before, because it is making the effort in two years to provide for the opening of the Panama Canal, and the contingencies that will then confront it. This work should have been in contemplation many years in the past, and should not have been left until the last moment for its completion. The work upon the piers and wharves and seawalls in San Francisco at the present time is of the most modern scientific type, and a greater amount of that work is progressing than ever before. The poor type of construction of the past, and the work of destructive parasites, have rendered necessary repairs to a greater portion of the piers heretofore constructed. In another part of this message, the incident was referred to that the rates charged to tenants upon the State's property, prior to the administration of the present Harbor Board, were really fixed by the Southern Pacific Company, the chief tenant of the State. When the present Harbor Board assumed control it believed that the rentals paid were insufficient, but in order to determine justly what these rentals should be, it appointed a commission of three well known real estate men of San Francisco to value the properties, and from the values to fix fair rentals. This commission reported, the report was adopted. The result was an increase in rentals from the transportation companies amounting to $137,500 per annum. At the same time, charges against shippers were reduced ten per cent. Naturally those whose rentals were increased, and those who have dealt in the past with this wondrous asset of the State for private gain, do not look with favor upon a management of the harbor for all the people of all the State.

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

The National Guard has been during the past two years vastly improved. The Guard now consists of 4,188 officers and men trained and disciplined. During the past two years the personnel of the Guard has been increased by 50 officers and 727 men. Target ranges have been constructed and equipped for over 45 additional organizations, giving small arms ranges for the entire Guard using the rifle and revolver. Ten camps of instruction and joint exercises and maneuvers with the Regular Army have been held for officers and men. Officers have been sent to Fort Riley, Kansas, and Sparta, Wisconsin, three times to technical service schools of instruction, and other officers have been sent to the Mexican border with the Regular Army and to the Government School of Musketry at Monterey. Regular Army officers have been detailed with the land forces as instructors and have conducted, and are still conducting, schools of instruction. An officer has been detailed as instructor for the Naval Militia and the recent maneuvers of the militia in conjunction with the Regular Army called forth the highest encomiums from the officials of the Federal army.

STATE PRINTING OFFICE.

The revolution in the methods of the State Printing Office has been of such recent date that doubtless all are familiar with changed conditions there. The Superintendent of State Printing has finally demonstrated that a printing office in behalf of the State may be conducted with the same economy and efficiency as a private and purchased for the State a tract of land in Napa County, and in the purchase unquestionably the State has been most fortunate. The commission desires the work commenced upon the reformatory at the earliest possible moment. The citizens of the Napa Valley, however, have been most strongly protesting against the location of this institution in their midst, and I feel it my duty to transmit to you this protest. I notify you of the fact of the purchase of the tract, and of the expenditure of the appropriation made in 1911 for that purpose. Of course, to construct the reformatory the requisite additional appropriation must be made.

STATE HORTICULTURAL COMMISSION.

There is nothing of greater importance than our horticultural interests. It has recently been stated that in our citrus industries alone $175,000,000 are invested and its annual production is around $40,000,000. A vast territory is still available for its expansion and its possibilities are unlimited. The enormous value of our horticultural interests cannot be overestimated, and the problems in connection with them are serious and require an unceasing vigilance. Great power in the State has been conferred upon the Horticultural Commissioner in the matter of quarantines and the like, and this power has been exercised during the past year by the present Commissioner whenever he deemed it essential. The ravages of any of the pests that now scientifically are known, if admitted within our borders, might take from us this wonderful industry of which we are so proud, and which is fundamentally one of the chief sources of our wealth. The Horticultural Commissioner has been unremitting in his activity and for this department, one of the most important in the State, I ask the consideration that its importance demands.

There are other departments of the state government concerning which much might be written. It is impossible within the limits of any one message to treat adequately all the branches of the State's government, or to present all the suggestions that occur concerning legislation. From time to time I shall communicate with you upon specific subjects, in the hope that I may aid in your labors and that there may be with us that useful cooperation so essential for real achievement. It is my fervent wish that we may all go forward with the work that is ours and do that work with the single purpose of performing a duty and executing with fidelity the trust that has been reposed in us.

HIRAM W. JOHNSON,
Governor.

For the purpose of restoring to him all his civil and political rights and privileges, a pardon was granted.

HENRY HAGEMEISTER, pardoned by Acting Governor Wallace on October 1, 1912. Committed in October, 1908, from the county of San Joaquin, having been convicted of the crime of arson and sentenced to a term of fifteen (15) years at San Quentin State Prison. At the time of his conviction Hagemeister was nineteen years of age. He was paroled on the 2d day of January, 1910, and immediately returned to the scene of his crime and was there given employment, with which he remained until the latter part of 1911, when he was permitted by the Board of Prison Directors to go to the city of Detroit to his parents. He was continuously employed subsequent to his parole and demonstrated his ability to become a useful citizen. His pardon was recommended by the district attorney of San Joaquin county, who prosecuted him, and the present district attorney of said county, and as well by C. L. Van Buskirk, against whose property the crime was committed. Many other citizens of said county recommended a pardon and because of these things a pardon was granted.

EDWARD COLE, pardoned by Acting Governor Wallace on October 1, 1912. Committed in April, 1912, from the county of San Joaquin, having been sentenced to a term of three (3) years at San Quentin State Prison. Cole was eighteen years of age and had never before been in trouble. His offense consisted of the theft of a suit of clothes and the sum of $1.50 in money. After his incarceration, the resident physician at San Quentin reported him a sufferer from chronic heart disease, and in a critical condition. Upon recommendation of the warden, and a showing that provisions had been made to return him to his parents in the State of Illinois, a pardon was granted.

H. A. GEORGE, pardoned by Acting Governor Wallace on October 1, 1912. Committed in April, 1912, from the county of Siskiyou, having been convicted of the crime of issuing a fictitious check and sentenced to a term of eighteen (18) months at San Quentin State Prison. In a disturbance at the prison on the 9th day of June, 1912, in which George had no part, he received a bullet wound through the hip. The wound failed properly to heal and an operation was necessary and other surgical treatment which were not available at the state prison. In addition to this, he was recommended for pardon by the district attorney for the county of Siskiyou, who urged that his was a case rather for probation than imprisonment. In view of his injury and because of such recommendation, a pardon was granted.

GILBERT M. YOUNG, pardoned by Acting Governor Wallace on October 17, 1912. Committed in 1906 from the county of Monterey, having pleaded guilty to the crime of robbery and having been sentenced to a term of twenty (20) years at San Quentin State Prison. Young was paroled on the 1st day of October, 1909, and since that time had been steadily employed. His conduct was exemplary and he was recommended for pardon by Hon. B. V. Sargent, Judge of the Superior Court of Monterey County, by Hon. Fred A. Trent, district attorney who prosecuted him, by Hon. Frank R. Willis, Judge of the Superior Court of the county of Los Angeles, who had become intimately acquainted with him, by B. T. Brain, under-sheriff of the county of Los Angeles, and by D. L. Lorigner, deputy sheriff, to whom he had reported monthly during his parole period. Upon the showing made of his good conduct, and the recommendations, a pardon was granted.

FRED FROEHLINGER, pardoned by Acting Governor Wallace on October 17, 1912. Committed December, 1907, from the county of San Diego, having been convicted of the crime of statutory rape, and sentenced to a term of twenty (20) years at San Quentin State Prison. At the time of his conviction Froehlinger was nineteen years of age, and though it was indicated to him that if he would plead guilty to the charge probation would be given him, he always insisted that he was entirely innocent. Subsequently, the prosecutrix in the case retracted the story she had told at the time of the trial and her statement having been brought to the attention of the district attorney of the county of San Diego, an investigation was had before the grand jury of that county, the result of which indicated that Froehlinger was innocent of the crime. For this reason the pardon was granted.

GEORGE E. WOODSTOCK, pardoned by Acting Governor Wallace on October 30, 1912. Committed in April, 1912, from the county of Lassen, having been convicted of statutory rape, and sentenced to a term of ten (10) years at San Quentin State Prison. After the conviction of Woodstock, the testimony of the prosecutrix in his case was so badly discredited that a petition for his pardon was signed by the twelve jurors who rendered the verdict against him, and by practically the entire population of the county. In addition thereto, Hon. G. P. Johnson, the district attorney who prosecuted the case, wrote as follows: "After the trial of Emanuel Enos there has subsequent conviction for any felony, and that in addition to the sentence imposed upon him by reason of such conviction he serve the remainder of his commuted term.

LOUIE AUGUSTINE was convicted in the Superior Court of the county of Lake of the crime of murder in the first degree and thereafter he was sentenced to be hanged on the 16th day of September, 1910. He had been reprieved from time to time by former Governor Gillett, until the 20th day of January, 1911, and on the 16th day of January, 1911, and on three subsequent dates he was reprieved by me in order that I might properly investigate his application for commutation to life imprisonment. After a careful consideration of his case such commutation was granted on the 6th day of June, 1911. The crime of which Augustine was convicted was the killing of the sheriff of Lake County, while he was in the discharge of his duty. The evidence shows that Augustine shot the sheriff about dusk just as the sheriff, who had been lying in wait for him, called out "Throw up your hands." Augustine is an Indian boy, eighteen years of age, without friends and without funds. His attorney was appointed by the court. The feeling in the county ran somewhat high against him. His case was never appealed and the question of premeditation and deliberation was never passed upon by the court of last resort. Because of this, and more especially because of his extreme youth, there never having been an execution in this State of one so young, the commutation was granted.

HORACE BENNETT was in the month of December, 1908, in the Superior Court of the county of Monterey, convicted of murder in the first degree and was thereafter sentenced to be hanged on the 9th day of February, 1912. A letter received by me from Hon. H. W. Henshaw, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, in relation to Bennett's application for commutation of sentence and concurred in by Hon. F. M. Angellotti, Hon. Lucien Shaw, Hon. M. C. Sloss, and Hon. Henry A. Melvin, and Hon. W. G. Lorigan, Associate Justices of said court, sets forth among other things the following: "My understanding is that the petition seeks to have the death sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. Such a commutation would, in my judgment, still inflict upon the defendant a full measure of punishment for his crime, and at the same time would be both a humane and just act of executive clemency. * * * And though, as the opinion shows, there was sufficient evidence to support the jurors' verdict of deliberation and premeditation, yet I was strongly impressed that deliberation and premeditation did not enter into the crime, but that the inspiring cause was a sudden and unreckoning anger induced by whisky. I think my associates as well as myself were surprised that the verdict should have been anything more than manslaughter. Certainly, therefore, a mitigation of punishment to life imprisonment would in my opinion, as I have said, be both just and humane." A careful examination of the testimony in the case confirmed these conclusions and on the 13th day of December, 1911, a commutation to life imprisonment was therefore granted.

JOHN BYRNE was convicted in the Superior Court of the city and county of San Francisco, of the crime of murder in the first degree, and was thereafter sentenced to be hanged on the 10th day of November, 1911. An application for a commutation of his sentence was made to me, and in order to investigate his case, a reprieve was granted until January 12, 1912. In the opinion of the Supreme Court rendered in the matter of the appeal of Byrne, Justice Angellotti said: "A mere reading of the record in this case clearly leaves one in grave doubt as to the question of the defendant's guilt." The Chief Justice and all of the Associate Justices of said court recommended that the sentence of Byrne be commuted to life imprisonment, and in addition thereto Hon. William P. Lawlor, Judge of the Superior Court of the city and county of San Francisco, before whom Byrne was tried, and who rendered the judgment and decree of death, also recommended a commutation of his sentence. Upon these recommendations, on the 10th day of January, 1912, a commutation to life imprisonment was granted.

WM. BURKE was convicted in the Superior Court of the county of San Diego of the crime of murder in the first degree, and was thereafter sentenced to be hanged on the 22d day of December, 1911. The crime of which Burke was convicted was the murder of his mistress at the conclusion of a long debauch. The facts which were presented upon the application of Burke for a commutation of his sentence indicated clearly that at the time of the commission of the crime his mental condition was far from normal. Lewis R. Kirby, district attorney of the county of San Diego, who prosecuted Burke, and H. S. Utley, present district attorney of said county, after a thorough investigation of the case, recommended a commutation. The foreman of the trial jury, and three other jurors, under oath, stated that if this fact had been brought to their attention, a recommendation for life imprisonment would have accompanied the verdict. A commutation was recommended by practically all of the county officers of the county of San Diego, and after a thorough investigation of the case, Acting Governor Wallace, on the 10th day of September, 1912, commuted the sentence of Burke to life imprisonment.

GEO. E. FIGUEROA was convicted in the Superior Court of the county of Los Angeles of the crime of murder in the first degree, and was sentenced to be hanged on the 20th day of October, 1911. Figueroa was defended by an inexperienced

[illegible] and his defense was fundamentally unreasonable in the extreme. In the event [illegible] the jury awarded no punitive compensation but the sentence in the event of [illegible] the trial court made a finding to the effect that the conduct of the [illegible] constituted and [illegible] and that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Briefly, the amendment provides that votes having at least one hundred persons within such counties thereof to their choosing electors for those votes that person shall be entitled to Presidential shall be deemed a total full citizen to be a permanent count of such votes. All persons permanently sick, having only three days residence, although may self citizens and such persons only. In case there is no purchaser, for any lot, piece or parcel of land so offered for sale, the same shall be struck off to the said city and county of San Francisco, as purchaser, and the board of supervisors shall appropriate out of the general fund of the treasury, the amount then due against the lot, piece or parcel of land, and shall order the county treasurer to place the same in the special fund for such improvement. 4th. After making the sale, the board of public works must execute, in duplicate, a certificate of sale, setting forth a description of the property sold, the name of the owner thereof, as given on the assessment roll, that said property was sold for a delinquent assessment (specifying the improvement for which the same was made), the amount for which such property was sold, the date of sale, the name of the purchaser, and the time when the purchaser will be entitled to a deed. The board of public works must file one copy of such certificate in its office and deliver the other to the purchaser, or if the said city and county of San Francisco is the purchaser, to the clerk of the board of supervisors, who shall file the same in his office. On the filing of the copy of such certificate in the office of the board of public works, the lien of the assessment shall vest in the purchaser, and is only divested by a redemption of the property, as in this act provided. The board of public works shall also enter on the assessment roll, opposite the description of each piece of property offered for sale, a description of the part thereof sold, the amount for which the same was sold, the date of the sale, and the name of the purchaser.

When redemption is made, the board of public works shall note that fact on the duplicate certificate of sale on file in its office, and deposit the amount paid with the county treasurer, who shall credit the purchaser named in the certificate of sale with the said amount and pay the same to such purchaser, or his assignee upon the surrender of the certificate of sale, and upon satisfactory proof of assignment thereof, if any. When the said city and county of San Francisco is the purchaser, the county treasurer shall notify the clerk of the board of supervisors of the redemption, and such clerk shall thereupon cancel the certificate of sale on file in his office.

6th. At any time after the expiration of twelve months from the date of the sale, the board of public works must execute to the purchaser or his assignee on his application, if such purchaser or assignee has complied with the provisions of this section, a deed of the property sold, in which shall be recited substantially the matters contained in the certificate, also any assignment thereof and the fact that no person has redeemed the property. It shall be conclusive evidence of the necessity of taking or damaging the lands taken or damaged, and of the necessity of the improvement and work and of the correctness of the compensation awarded for lands taken or damaged.

8th. The board of public works shall from time to time pay over to the county treasurer all moneys collected by the board on account of any assessments made under the provisions hereof. The county treasurer shall on receipt thereof, place the same in a special fund, designating such fund by the name of the street, avenue, square, lane, alley, court or place for the widening, opening or other improvements for which the assessment was made. Payment shall be made from said fund to the parties entitled thereto upon warrants signed by the members of the board of public works. QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Senator Curtin arose to a question of personal privilege and addressed the Senate as follows:

Mr. President and Members of the Senate:

It is my purpose at this time to address you somewhat at length on the proposed bill now under consideration as it goes into the merits of the tax system now in force and of which system I am the author; and it would seem that being its author, in the ordinary course of things, I ought to know something of its operation. For several months past the press of this State have kept constantly before the public mind the damaging news that there is a present "deficit" in the State's funds and an "apparent deficit" in the funds for the coming year. Such statements and publications have done immeasurable damage to this State. In such statements and publications my name, honor and reputation is necessarily drawn into question and I now propose to point out to you how little truth there is in such publications and shall deal with the subject generally. When Amendment No. 1 was under consideration by the Legislature in 1907 and 1909, as its author and for those of us on the Tax Commission, I promised the people of California that if it was adopted it would more justly equalize the burden of taxation and that it would support the State government without resorting to an ad valorem tax, and I will demonstrate to you before I close my remarks that I have made good every statement I made in behalf of this amendment.

My colleagues on the floor have complained to the floor my remarks and I propose to [illegible] and have it to [illegible] the Senate.

All that I will now have to say I would have said on a question of personal privilege early last week, but as all the newspapers in this State have published from day to day that there is a present deficit and apparent one for the coming year, and had I given you the facts and figures I now give you, the administration newspapers would have misjudged my purpose and charged me with forestalling the passage of this bill. For that reason alone I have not heretofore spoken on this subject, even though it has been seriously to my disadvantage to have postponed my statement to this time.

In his message to the Legislature the Governor on page 18 says: "I call your attention to the report of Controller Nye in which he estimates the excess of expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, at $670,000, and the deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, to be $1,101,000. These estimates in my opinion are much less than the true amounts will be found to be for the period mentioned. They are made with a confidence in the future revenue producing possibilities of the new method of taxation possessed now by but few." In reply to that statement in this message I desire to quote from the report just published by Controller Nye. I think it will not be questioned that A. B. Nye is the most versed and experienced man holding office in California today. He is the soul of honor and knows the fullest Controller Nye put in his report that statement as to "discredit abroad" to warn the people and the Legislature that the most isolated question of repealing the poll tax and corporation license tax is fraught with serious results and ought not to be done. But if done, we would lose that much of the present revenues—a self evident truth and when he says advised the people how we were misunderstood and it seems remarkable that it was not understood, but instead of being so understood, widespread alarm and confusion has followed.

Is it any wonder why we cannot sell our bonds at par when banks here or anywhere else? A State that cannot pay expenses because its revenues are cut off and the Governor has said publicly that California is a discredited state and the message to the Legislature as to "deficits" does not lessen that "discredit."

Our banking law provides that our banks cannot buy bonds of any state that has defaulted in its interest and how can we expect any banker or bond buyer to buy our bonds and thus loan money to the State when it advertises itself as having a present and future deficit? A state that advertises itself as unable to pay its expenses cannot expect to sell many bonds. It was bad enough to discredit us politically, but it is far worse to discredit us financially. Why should we be thus discredited when we have today nearly $9,200,000 loaned out at interest? If this kind of a reputation keeps on we will soon find ourselves unable to give a state bond away, say nothing about selling them.

In his message the Governor further says: "At the time of the passage of the amendment, the arguments advanced by its advocates and by the representatives of the various public service corporations in its behalf were alluring and persuasive, and generally our people understood that the revenues required for the State would be produced wholly by the corporations." In answer to the charge, I quote from Controller Nye's report, on page 13:

"FORMER ESTIMATES EXCEEDED.

"In connection with this showing of results attained, it seems worth while to compare the actual revenues under the new system with the advance estimates which, at different dates, were made by the Commission on Revenue and Taxation. There were three of these estimates presented in the years 1907, 1908 and 1910 respectively, each being based on a computation of what the corporation taxes would have produced if actually in force at those times. The several estimates and the actual result are shown by the following figures:

1907 estimate of total taxes	$6,505,000
1908 estimate of total taxes	7,525,176
1910 estimate of total taxes	7,998,645
Actual collections for 1911	10,387,206

"This large excess, amounting to more than two and a quarter millions over the highest of the advance estimates, points to the conclusion that if in effect during any one of the former years the amendment would have yielded more revenue than the commission claimed it would. At least, the commission did not go astray by overestimating the productive power of the new tax system, and if its calculations have erred in any direction it has been in the opposite one of underrating the rapidly growing revenue needs of the State government.

"Nearly all of the different classes of corporations paid amounts of taxes in 1911 in excess of the 1910 estimate, and the franchise taxes, which had been estimated at about a million dollars, actually yielded $1,619,588."

And I again refer to the Controller's report where he says clearly that the revenues from the new system will be ample to meet all necessary appropriations for 1913-14 unless "the corporation license tax be reduced or any other equal portion of the present revenues be cut off" and that amount for 1913-14 is computed by the Controller to be $15,943,482. Now these figures and communication from the State Controller, who administers this new system of taxation, justifies "those alluring arguments advanced by its advocates." Now as to those "alluring arguments" advanced "by the representatives of the various public service corporations in its behalf," the answer can be found in Controller Nye's report, just published, on page 220, which reads as follows:

Now, the grand total of all state and county taxes paid by all the railroads in California on the assessment by the State Board of Equalization in 1910, which is the last assessment made by that board of railroads—as the new system went into effect in 1911—show that all the railroads in California, including the Pullman Company, paid a total state and county tax of $2,107,225.00 and for 1912 the Southern Pacific Company, on almost the identical assessment of its property made under the old system in 1910, paid under the new system $2,398,199.40, or $134,973.80 more than the Southern Pacific Company and all the railroads in California, including the Pullman Company, paid under the last assessment made on their property by the State Board of Equalization under the old law in 1910. That you may be satisfied on this point I read you the following:

"STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION, STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
SACRAMENTO, January 17, 1913.

Hon. J. B. Curtin, State Senate, Sacramento, Cal.

MY DEAR SENATOR: Replying to your inquiry, beg to advise that for the assessment year of 1912 the Southern Pacific Company reported total taxable gross assets in the sum of $59,954,984.83, upon which the State levied a tax at four per cent or $2,398,199.40. This tax covers the operative property of said company and contributes to the operation of its business but does not include the taxes on any nonoperative property which said company may have paid to the counties, cities, reclamation, irrigation and other districts; nor does said sum include any license taxes paid by the company for any purpose.

Very truly yours,

T. M. EBY,
Secretary State Board of Equalization."

Further, in 1912 the Southern Pacific Company also paid on the same property the state Panama Exposition tax, and also county taxes, city taxes, license taxes and irrigation taxes amounting to the further sum of $410,502.56.

Now, under the old law in 1910, the Pullman company paid as state and county taxes as assessed by the State Board of Equalization, $36,694.62 and as a result of those "alluring arguments" it did in 1912 pay on practically the same property a State tax of $58,619.98 and a state Panama Exposition tax of $1,351.06. I have not the figures as to how much other county, city and district taxes it paid.

I could cite innumerable instances of similar results, the grand total of which is shown by the "Special Report on Taxation showing Fifty Years of Separation of State, County and Municipal Revenues and Tax Rates," made by the State Board of Equalization December 1, 1911, where it is in detail shown that the net saving to the tax payers of the counties in 1911 was $3,537,121.16, and on page 12 of Controller Nye's report he shows that the gross receipts from taxes for 1912 were those of 1911 to be $1,191,679.10, and from a similar report just published by the State Board of Equalization for the year 1912 the net saving to the counties for the past year is shown to be $3,430,914.67; and adding those two years' savings together it gives as a result of two years working of this new system a total saving of $6,958,035.83, which in plain language is that the counties had the same amount of money to spend for county purposes as they would have had under the old system, and have been saved from paying for the support of the state government in those two years the sum of $3,958,035.83. When we appreciate that from the new corporations we get increased revenue without increased cost to get it, and when we contemplate that out of every one hundred dollars of increased traffic in railroads of all kinds and increased electric energy to be sold during the years 1914 and 1915, it seems probable that our Governor should have the courage to say that the confidence in the future revenue producing possibilities of the new method of taxation (is) possessed [illegible] by but few. In answer to this charge I state that there is not now today in the United States a system of taxation of like size and beyond the old system of taxation for state purposes, but all of them uphold the new system of [illegible] and Professor Ely, who was [illegible] for Louisiana, Nevada and Oregon, and I have had [illegible] Every [illegible] State [illegible] the new system of taxation, because at the end of the year the exact amount of tax to be paid is definite and certain, but not one single corporation in California favored the rates of taxation as contained in the new method.

If the confidence in this new system of taxation "is possessed by but few," let those who doubt its merit judge it by the report of its operation for the first two years as made by Controller Nye, and I quote the [illegible] from page 13 of his report:

"The state of the general fund is at all times the best test of the financial condition of the [illegible] because while the special funds are created to take care of the [illegible], the general fund is the one which must bear the burden of all responsibilities and [illegible] [illegible]. The favorable comparison of the condition of the General Fund at the end of each of the last two fiscal years is, therefore, in point:

Special appropriations in 1907	$2,029,612 00

special appropriations, $2,044,720, or a total of $17,044,482, which is $1,4 greater than the receipts in 1912, and so on. We are not going backward and if we go forward as much in 1913 over 1912 as we, in 1912, went beyond that of 1911, we need have no fear that the "wolf will be at the door" or that the "ax will fall" or that we will be "out of." That this State will go forward in 1913 is the firm belief of will far exceed the last."

Within ten days from the filing of such petition, the registrar of voters shall, from the records of registration, determine whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified voters, and he shall attach to said petition his certificate showing such determination. If such certificate shows the petition to be insufficient, it may be supplemented within ten days from the date of the certificate by the filing of additional papers, duplicates of the original petition except as to the names signed. The registrar of voters shall, within ten days after such additional papers are filed, ascertain from the records of registration, and certify whether or not the names to such petition, including such additional papers, are sufficient, and if insufficient, no action shall be taken thereon; but the petition shall remain on file as a public record. The failure to secure sufficient names shall not prejudice the filing later of an entirely new petition to the same effect. If required by the registrar of voters, the board of supervisors shall authorize him to employ, and shall provide for the compensation of, persons necessary in the examination of said petition and supple-

ARTICLE XI

RECALL

SEC. 50. The holder of any elective or appointive county or township office may be recalled by the electors at any time after he has held his office six months. The provisions of this article shall apply to officials now in office, and to those hereafter elected or appointed. Such recall shall be effected as follows: A petition demanding the election or appointment of a successor to the person sought to be recalled shall be filed with the registrar of voters, which petition shall be signed by qualified voters equal in number to at least fifteen per cent of the entire vote cast within the county for all candidates for the office of Governor of the State at the last preceding election, at which a Governor was elected (or at least twenty-five per cent of such vote cast within the district or township for which the officer sought to be recalled was elected or appointed in case of an official not elected by or appointed for the county) and shall contain a statement of the grounds on which the recall is sought. No insufficiency of form or substance in such statement shall affect the validity of the election and proceedings held thereunder. The signatures to the petition need not all be appended to one paper. Each signer shall add to his signature his place of occupation and residence, giving street and number or if no street or number exist, then such a designation of his residence as will enable the location to be readily ascertained. To each separate paper of such petition shall be attached an affidavit made by a qualified elector of the county, stating that the affiant circulated that particular paper and saw written the signatures appended thereto, and that, according to the information and belief of the affiant, each of said signatures is genuine, and the signature of a qualified elector of the county (or particular subdivision thereof in which such signers are hereby required to reside). Within ten days from the filing of such petition, the registrar of voters shall, from the records of registration, determine whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified voters, and he shall attach to said petition his certificate showing such determination. If such certificate shows the petition to be insufficient, it may be supplemented within ten days from the date of the certificate by the filing of additional papers containing the required additional number of names signed. The registrar of voters shall, within ten days after such additional papers are filed, ascertain from the records of registration, and certify whether or not the names to such petition, including such additional papers, are still insufficient, and if insufficient, no action shall be taken thereon; but the petition shall remain on file as a public record [illegible] prejudice the filing later of an entirely new petition to the same effect. If required by the registrar of voters, the board of supervisors shall authorize him to employ, and shall provide for the compensation of persons, necessary in the examination of said petition, and supplementary petition, in addition to the persons regularly employed by him in his office. In case the registrar of voters is the officer sought to be recalled, the duties in this article provided to be performed by him shall be performed by the county clerk. If the petition shall be found to be sufficient, the registrar of voters shall submit the same to the board of supervisors without delay, whereupon the board shall forthwith cause a special election to be held not less than thirty-five nor more than forty days after the date of the order calling such an election, to determine whether the voters shall recall such officer. If a vacancy occur in said office after a recall petition is filed, and the office is elective, the election shall nevertheless proceed as in this section provided. One petition is sufficient to propose the recall of one or more officials and the election of successors to such thereof as are elective. Nominations for any elective office under such recall election shall be made by petition in the manner provided in Section 1188 of the Political Code. Upon the sample ballot there shall be printed, in not more than two hundred words the grounds set forth in the recall petition for demanding the recall of the officer sought to be recalled. On the same ballot in not more than two hundred words, the officer may justify himself. There shall be printed on the recall ballot, as to every officer whose recall is to be voted on, the following question: "Shall (name of person against whom the recall petition is filed) be recalled from the office of (title of office)?" following which question shall be the words "Yes" and "No" on separate lines, with a blank space at the right of each, in which the voter shall, by stamping a cross (×) indicate his vote for or against such recall. On such ballots, under such head, there shall also be printed, if the officer sought to be recalled shall have filed the same at least [illegible] nominated as candidates to succeed him, in case he shall be recalled at such election; but no one shall be nominated for any candidate to said office on the said ballot voted on the question of the recall of the person sought to be recalled therefrom. The name of the person sought to be recalled shall not appear on the ballot as a candidate for the office. If a majority of those voting on said question of the recall of any incumbent shall vote "No," said incumbent shall continue in said office. If a majority shall vote "Yes," said incumbent shall thereupon be deemed removed from such office, upon the qualification of his successor. The canvassers shall canvass the votes for candidates for said office and declare the result in like manner as in a regular election. If the vote at any such special election shall result in the adoption of such proposition, then the candidate who has received the highest number of votes for the office shall be deemed declared elected for the expiration of the term. In case the person who received the highest number of votes shall fail to qualify within ten days after receiving the certificate of election, the office shall be deemed vacant and shall be filled according to law. If the commission of an appointive officer be ratified at such election, the governor shall be empowered immediately after the canvassing of the vote. Before any petition can be filed under this section for the recall of any officer in the consolidated service of the county, there shall be presented to, and be passed upon by the civil service commission a resolution in writing setting forth the grounds for and stating the reasons of such recall. Such resolution shall be considered and be therein acted upon by the commission within twenty days after such filing. Until such time as the board of supervisors shall provide a regulation of procedure under the provisions of this section, the powers and duties in this section conferred upon the supervisors of counties shall be exercised and performed by the mayor thereof. In case at any time prior to the appointment of such successor, the appointive officer shall be notified to be recalled, such person shall thereupon be and absent the success or every proposed vacancy shall be proposed and determined in some other manner as provided by the board of supervisors.

MESSAGE PRESENTED BY THE GOVERNOR.

At twelve o'clock m. Senator Caminetti of the Thirty-third District in the chair.

GENERAL ORDER.

The hour set for the Senate for reverting to report to the memory of the late Sylvester Clark Smith, Representative in Congress from the Eighth District of California, and a Senator from the Thirty-second District during the forty-first regular session and thirty-fourth session of the California Legislature, having arrived, Senator Lukens addressed the Senate as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT: One hour has been set apart for the purpose of saying but few words on behalf of Senator and Congressman Smith. I had been closely associated with him in the Senate and Assembly for many years. We were both graduates of the same High School and interested with the shortcomings of the students while there in that State. For many years I have been acquainted with Congressman Smith. I remember being there in 1890 he came to my office in Visalia and we talked. I knew I wanted to run for the Senate. In those methods by which I could get the support of the then editor. I told him that I thought of the two letters which were to me for the office, there for some assignment, and said a suggestion to myself, and then entered the office. He was always progressive in the times and during the course in the Senate he fulfilled my predictions and advice and support and friendship. He possessed the characteristic that they attempted him to the Senate to time and again re-elected [illegible]. I remember well, he came to the Senate office that time Senators Wright, Curtin, and other Senators from Sacramento that time. "Sylvester," he said, "I want to run for Congress." "Senator," I said, "you have served me well and I believe you are entitled to go to Congress," the office and he served his constituents widely I did. They were at once my associates here in Sacramento we grew up. The conventions did not agree and went to Riverside where finally after a long fight Captain Lewis from Riverside [illegible] he was a progressive citizen, and I think from his native state, the mountains. Lewis represented his district in Congress one term. In the next convention Smith, having no more ambitions himself turned back the tide and the nominee and I mean he received those opposed to him but I could never find to have a real enemy for therefore his nomination for Congress. After that he went to Congress and several years went by there.

Gentlemen of the Senate, I do not know any man in the history of this State that has done the duty more honestly and more upright duties to party, and the State than Congressman Smith. We were united and things in our body of conventions, were of however, whether representatives in Assembly, Senate, Congress, or what not, we would meet who was honest in characters. No matter what form you may have differences, you have got the best interests and honest men in putting the laws of your laws will stand you together. In all my acquaintance with men of public affairs, I found him to be one of the most honest and always willing and inspired to do what he thought was right. In my opinion one of the best interests of a lawmaker is nothing else. He seemed to know things which others did not thought of or had overlooked, he was a close observer, a man who saw little things as well as big ones. He had another characteristic, which I consider one of the chief characteristics of all lawmakers—he had a big heart. I believe that the biggest man on the face of the earth is the man who has the biggest heart and loves his country and fellowmen the best. His heart reached out to the entire State and to the affairs at large in the nation, and I believe to the world at large; for his heart went out to the human race and knew no geographical lines.

It is true, gentlemen, that Senator Smith and I differed in political matters, sometimes—no, not in political matters, but in the method by which political reforms should be brought about. Congressman Smith was a reformer, but he differed with many other men in the method of bringing reform about. I remember well during my late senatorial fight, he then running for Congress, and I for Senator, he discussed with me different questions. He said, "Senator Larkins, I would like to see the State of California own every bit of the timber lands and oil lands in the State; the United States Government might do well to cede these lands to the State of California." I thought it was a good idea, and I have often thought of it since.

Above all things, he was a man that was just. In private affairs I always found him honest and in his controversies absolutely fair. He believed in the people, but he believed in a representative government, in which the people should be represented by those experienced in political affairs. He [illegible] to suit to his liking, but he did the best he could under the circumstances.

Smith always did the best he knew, and that is all we can ask. Men may differ with us in political matters or civic or social affairs, or in religion, but who is there to condemn them for it? He was slow to condemn his fellowmen for improper motives, and realized that there is good in all men. His attitude in this respect is best expressed in the words of the poet:

"In men whom men pronounce as ill,
I find so much of goodness still,
In men whom men pronounce divine
I find so much of sin and blot,
I hesitate to draw the line between the two
Where God has not."

Mr. President, death settles all our differences, and in its presence the human passions grow calm, and in its presence we are usually just in our estimate of character. Death sows the seeds, and from them spring the tree of life, furnishing wholesome food for generations of men to come, for the good deeds of men live on forever and do much toward shaping the destiny of the race. This is immortality, such at least is his, and whether there is any other immortality or not, this is enough; a good thought or a good deed, like a force set in motion, goes on forever. Smith has received the call, he has passed into the twilight and into the evening beyond. I imagine as he found himself facing the mysterious unknown, that in his mind was much the same thought as was in Tennyson's when he wrote—

"Twilight and evening star,
A clear sure call for me.
May there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea."

Senator Anderson addressed the Senate, as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT: Having come from the congressional district many years represented by the late Congressman Smith, and having had a close acquaintance with him, I can not let this occasion pass without adding a brief expression of my high regard for him.

When you gentlemen have been apprised of the fact that I campaigned my Senatorial district eight years ago with Congressman Smith, when he was then a candidate for Congress and I for the State Senate, you will know that I had occasion to know the man, traveling with him day and night; holding meetings in small country towns; appearing before large audiences in the larger places; conversing with many individuals; talking to school children in the country schools, and the Indian school at Riverside, and I must say that he was one of the most versatile men I have ever met. He seemed to have the faculty of always saying the right thing at the right time, and always leaving a good impression. If I should continue my eulogy of the late Congressman for an hour it might well be summed up in the statement that he was one of the cleverest, most upright, most big-hearted and most useful public men that this State has produced.

Senator Curtin addressed the Senate, as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT AND FELLOW SENATORS: On this occasion, when we have before us the intelligence of the death of Hon. S. C. Smith, who at one time was one of the most distinguished members of this body, we may well pause in our proceedings and pay to him a tribute which his splendid service in this body and Congress well deserves. I had the pleasure of serving with him here on this floor for three of the four sessions he served—in the thirty-second, -third and -fourth sessions of the Legislature—and I may assure you that I carry tender and pleasant recollections of that

Senator Mott addressed the Senate, as follows:

Mr. President: It gives me pleasure to present Senator and Congressman Scott Leigh [illegible] Senate.

I am sure Senator Smith would be glad.

Tuolumne, who preceded me, said, Congressman Smith is entitled because of his courage and his bravery.

During the last year I visited Congressman Smith at the hospital in the beautiful

"What builds a nation's pillars high,
And its foundations strong;
The foes that round it throng?
Brave men, who work while others sleep,
Who dare when others fly;
These build a nation's pillars deep
And rear them to the sky."

Senator W[illegible] addressed the Senate in eulogy of the late Representative, as follows:

Mr. President: I shall not [illegible] I think in view of the great service rendered to the State by the deceased [illegible]

I will assume only a very few moments, but I feel impressed by the solemnity of this occasion. When I learned yesterday morning of the death of Congressman Smith, my heart was filled with sadness, and I know that in the remotest corners of the State [illegible] As I look back over the history of the State of California and run the list of the deceased Congressmen passes in retrospect, I fail to discover a more faithful or a more industrious servant of the people. INTRODUCTION.

Senator Cartwright addressed the Senate as follows:

I am required to ask the indulgence of the Senate for some few minutes this morning.

Way back in the Higher regions of the Silver Mountains in the county of Fresno, which I have the honor of representing in this body, is located the Sequoia National Park, and within the limits of that park are found the trees known as the giant sequoias, and among that group the largest and most splendid one in California, the largest in all the world. It is named "General Grant." Last summer Mrs. Lavina Howell, residing near Fresno, while on her vacation visited this park, and while she was looking up at "General Grant" one of the limbs fell from the tree. She took the limb to Fresno and in the public schools of the city of Fresno she had one of the pupils in the manual training department make this gavel, a gavel made from the giant tree. The end [illegible] pure native gold dug from the soils of Fresno County. Mrs. Howell belongs to the W. C. T. U. The women representing the W. C. T. U. have decided to give this gavel to the one man in California to whom such presentation would seem most fitting, and they have asked me to be the humble instrument to say for them what they could better say themselves, these few words of presentation. Women, whether we regard them as sisters, sweethearts, wives or mothers have performed an important office in the world, and they have a position in this country and in the world aside from the office of sister, sweetheart, wife or mother for which the world must be ever grateful. From my earliest recollections I have been taught to revere and respect women. As sweethearts, they are a continuing delight. As wives, an unfailing consoler. As sisters they administer to our needs and wants, and as mothers they guard us from babyhood up to manhood and watch as closely as we go forth to do battle with the world. One thousand years ago, when this giant tree was planted, woman's condition was very different, but by her virtue and her worth she has forged steadily forward. Now, in California, we have admitted her in this State to full partnership both in private and public life. Whether we have made a mistake or not only time can tell. Whether we will drag her down to our degree or she will elevate us to her high estate only time can prove.

The women of the W. C. T. U. have asked me to present this gavel to the President of this Senate. Every Senator on this floor has long since recognized the splendid manhood, the sterling integrity, the Christian charity of our presiding officer, the [illegible] and [illegible] of the man. And so these noble women, as a token of their appreciation of that manhood, that integrity and that Christian spirit which has prompted him to make many sacrifices for their cause, have commissioned me to take this gavel made from the wood of that giant Sequoia, whose top penetrates the blue skies and plays upon the instruments of Heaven, startling the air into harmonies with each sighing of the breeze, and to present it to a man who looms large in the State of California. And, Mr. President, they have commanded me to say that they breathe the fervent prayer and entertain the hope that Heaven's choicest blessings may rest upon you and yours through all the coming years.

Lieutenant Governor Wallace received the gavel with appropriate words of thanks.

PETITION.

A petition from the Seventh Day Baptist Church of Los Angeles, protesting against the enactment of a Sunday rest law, was presented by Senator Strobridge.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEES.

The special committee appointed under authority of the resolutions of the Senate of January 23, 1911, and of March 25, 1911, to ascertain the law and the fact regarding text-books used in the common schools of the State, presented a report, which was, on motion of Senator Thompson, ordered printed in the Journal of the Senate:

To the Senate of the State of California, at its fortieth session:

Your special committee, appointed as hereinafter mentioned, respectfully reports:

That on January 12, 1911, Senator T. W. H. Shanahan introduced a resolution in the Senate as follows:

"WHEREAS, It is the requirement of Section 7, of Article IX, of the Constitution that a uniform series of text-books shall be compiled and adopted by the State Board of Education for use in the common schools throughout the State; and

WHEREAS, Subdivision 4, of Section 1663, of the Political Code, and the last sentence of Subdivision 5, of Section 1771, of the Political Code, seem to be at variance with the plain intendment and requirement of the Constitution in that respect; and

WHEREAS, The only provisions for the course of study in high schools and restriction upon change of text-books therein are embodied in Section 1750 of the Political Code, which said section seems to facilitate rather than prevent frequent changes in high school text-books; and

WHEREAS, There appears to be no provision in the law for uniformity in text-books for use in the high schools of the various counties and cities and counties of the State; and

WHEREAS, Many citizens of the State are complaining of the frequent and needless changes within each of many counties, and lack of uniformity throughout the State in the territories acquired by the cession of Texas, and to the public lands lying within the limits of the State; and

WHEREAS, Such commission, because a southern and western member, would more completely represent the entire Union; be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the President of the Senate is hereby authorized and directed to appoint a special committee of five members whose duty it shall be to investigate fully the said Pike Peak gold and silver mines in Colorado and such as pertinently to the purpose of said inquiry may be found; and to report the result of their investigations, with their opinion thereon, to the next succeeding session of the Legislature of this State; and that said committee have power to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer to report the testimony taken before them, and to have the same printed for the use of the Senate; and to do all other things necessary to the proper discharge of the duties of said committee; and

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby instructed to notify the Governor of the State of Texas of the appointment of said committee and request his co-operation in the investigation and such recommendations and counsel pertaining to the duties of said committee as may be necessary to make the investigation.

On motion of Senator Strickland, the committee was duly appointed pursuant to the Journal.

On January 15, 1913, the committee to Senator Strickland was referred to the Senate Committee on Education.

On January 16, 1913, the Senate Committee on Education reported upon the following resolution and recommended the adoption of the resolution:

Resolved by the Senate, That the President of the Senate be and he is hereby authorized and directed to appoint a special committee of five members, which shall be members of the Senate Committee on Education, whose duty it shall be to investigate fully the said Pike Peak gold and silver mines in Colorado and such as pertinently to the purpose of said inquiry may be found; and to report the result of their investigations, with their opinion thereon, to the next succeeding session of the Legislature of this State; and that said committee have power to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer to report the testimony taken before them, and to have the same printed for the use of the Senate; and to do all other things necessary to the proper discharge of the duties of said committee; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have the power to compel witnesses to appear before said committee and testify in regard to said mines and the ownership of the same, and to employ counsel to assist them in the discharge of their duties; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby instructed to notify the Governor of the State of Texas of the appointment of said committee and request his co-operation in the investigation and such recommendations and counsel pertaining to the duties of said committee as may be necessary to make the investigation.

Exhibits 1, 2 and 3 herein contained and made a part hereof, show the thoroughness of the inquiries and the zeal with which the state might be protected. Accurate were received by the committee from practically all of the aforesaid superintendents and principals, and having responses from nearly all, a condition is disclosed which shows a lack of uniformity in use of text-books, including supplementary in the elementary schools, generally still designated as common schools, and that many books are in use in the high schools of the State which have not been adopted as prescribed by law. In fact, the diversity is so great that your committee feels that it would be an idle task to tabulate the reports so as to show in detail, in this report, the exact condition. Absolute uniformity apparently does not exist in the text-books in use in the grades and on the subjects in the elementary schools and high schools of the State in any two cities or any two counties.

Pending the investigation of your committee, a constitutional amendment providing for free text-books in the elementary schools was defeated in the thirty-ninth session of the Senate; as was also a bill providing for a county purchase system, wh·reunder text-books were to be purchased by the counties and distributed free to the punils attending elementary schools in such counties.

March 25, 1911, Senator Strobridge introduced a resolution which recited the resolution of January 23, 1911, hereinbefore set out, and, in addition thereto, the following:

"WHEREAS, Such committee, on account of the limited time and the pressure of other legislative duties, have not been able to complete the investigation or to formulate the report contemplated by the resolution; and

WHEREAS, The importance of the subject demands that such investigation should be carried on in the spirit of the foregoing resolution; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That a special committee of five Senators be appointed by the President of the Senate to carry on the investigation provided for and set forth in the text of the foregoing resolution, and to prepare the report and recommendation contemplated by said resolution and submit the same to the Senate of the State of California at its fortieth session, together with such data and other information as may be elicited by such investigation, which committee shall be entitled to receive their necessary traveling expenses out of the Contingent Fund hereinafter provided; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee be, and it is hereby, authorized and empowered to do any and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters and subjects hereinbefore enumerated, and to that end to employ all necessary clerical and expert assistants; and said committee is hereby authorized and empowered to summon witnesses, send for persons and papers, to issue subpoenas, and to take all necessary means to compel the attendance of witnesses, and to procure testimony; and the members of said committee are, and each of them is, hereby authorized to administer oaths. And all the provisions of Article VIII of Chapter II, Title I, Part III, of the Political Code of this State relative to the attendance and examination of witnesses before the Legislature and committees thereof, shall apply to the committee appointed under this resolution, and the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate is hereby authorized and directed to serve any and all subpoenas and orders or other process that may be issued by said committee when directed so to do by the Chairman thereof; and be it further

Resolved, That the sum of five thousand dollars out of the Contingent Fund of the Senate is hereby made available for the purpose of defraying the necessary traveling expenses of the members of said committee and the contingent expenses of said committee in said investigation, and the Controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrants in favor of the chairman of said committee for such expenses, as the same may be certified to him from time to time by the chairman of said committee."

The resolution was adopted by the Senate and thereupon Senators Edward L. Strobridge, T. W. H. Shanahan, Newton W. Thompson, Marshall Black and Miguel Estudillo were appointed by the President of the Senate such committee to carry on the investigation provided for in the text of the foregoing resolution.

On Tuesday, August 8, 1911, the committee met at the State Capitol at Sacramento, there being present of the committee Senators Strobridge, Thompson and Shanahan. Joseph I. Coughlin, Sergeant at Arms of the Senate, attended this and all other hearings of the committee as sergeant at arms of the committee. Warren E. Dean was appointed and sworn as shorthand reporter of the investigation. Honorable Hiram W. Johnson, Governor of California, appeared and addressed the committee upon the importance of the investigation and assured the committee of his desire to render such services as he could. He also suggested that there should be some representative who would conduct the examination of witnesses on behalf of the State, and stated that he had requested Mr. Theodore J. Roche to represent him in that respect. The committee thereupon appointed Mr. Theodore J. Roche as attorney for the committee in the matter of the investigation. Testimony was taken by the committee at the said sessions of Tuesday, August 8, and Wednesday, August 9, 1911. The entire two days' session of the committee was devoted to the examination of William W. Shannon, then and theretofore Superintendent of State Printing, and J. J. C. Fitzgerald, one of his employees, and to the consideration of documentary evidence then introduced.

The next session of the committee for the taking of evidence was held at the Ferry Building in San Francisco on September 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29, 1911.

At this point the following settlement was announced: Mrs. M. Stanton D. D. Stallings, Lucas D. Goulding, L. W. Hamilton, Evelyn Wade Powell, H. Hall, Robert L. Jennings, Lester Humphreys, John L. The last hearing for the taking of testimony by the committee was held at the State Capitol at Sacramento, on December 27, 28 and 29, 1912, when there were present Senators Strobridge, Shanahan and Thompson, and the officers of the committee. At said sessions witnesses were sworn and examined, as follows:

John F. Neylan, Harr Wagner, Allison Ware, LeRoy E. Armstrong, Friend W. Richardson, S. C. Smith, C. H. Chilcote, Frank J. Browne, A. F. Lange and Edward Hyatt.

At this last meeting of the committee, the California Teachers' Association was represented by Mr. W. Irwin, H. Langdon and Mr. A. J. Cloud, who appeared before the committee and were accorded the privilege of examining all witnesses that testified before it, together with the right to produce and examine any witness whose testimony they desired the committee to consider. The privilege thus accorded these gentlemen was exercised by them, Mr. Langdon questioning some of the witnesses who testified, and both Mr. Langdon and Mr. Cloud making statements on behalf of the California Teachers' Association.

In addition to the sessions already enumerated, your committee held many sessions and conferences on matters material to the investigation.

The transcript of the oral testimony taken during the course of the investigation is presented herewith and contains 1,122 typewritten pages. In addition to said oral testimony, a mass of documentary evidence was introduced which was duly incorporated in the record of testimony, but accompanies this report.

From the evidence introduced, both oral and documentary, and the statements made before the committee, your committee finds the following facts and makes the accompanying recommendations:

STATE PRINTING OFFICE AND PUBLICATION OF TEXT-BOOKS.

For many years prior to and at the time this committee entered upon the discharge of its duties, under the administration of William W. Shannon, superintendent of State Printing, the cost of text-books as charged by the State Printing Office and levied against the school children of this State was grossly excessive and extortionate.

This situation was due to the manner in which the business of the State Printing Office was being and had for years been conducted, which was as deplorable as it was astounding, and which tolerated a system reeking with fraud and dishonesty.

The entire business of supplying materials used in the publication of state text-books was, with the active connivance of the Superintendent of State Printing, monopolized by four favored firms, which thereby profited to the extent of many thousands of dollars extorted from the parents and guardians of the school children.

During the eight years of Shannon's incumbency, it is established that payments were made to these favored firms as follows:

	Zaeh. Bach	Crocker	[illegible] Co.	Geo. D. Graham
1903	$42,100 73	$42,820 62	$1,657 05	$5,440 70
1904	58,484 61	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1905	[illegible]	46,516 10	[illegible]	2,851 00
1906	60,524 14	[illegible]	6,013 88	[illegible]
1907	[illegible]	62,189 57	3,915 77	[illegible]
1908	48,[illegible]	49,525 04	1,508 38	2,[illegible]
1909	[illegible]	[illegible]	1,928 37	[illegible]
1910	35,140 70	[illegible]	8,114 92	3,819 50
1911	15,778 12	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total (8 years)	$331,091 97	[illegible]	$47,592 44	[illegible]

These payments relate to the major part of the materials used in the State Printing Office during the years stated and demonstrate how, by means of a cunningly conceived and defiantly pursued system, the firms named controlled the business of supplying materials to that branch of the state government.

In order to permit awards to be made to and contracts to be entered into with these firms, the spirit of the statute providing for the annual awarding of contracts was directly violated and its directions deliberately and designedly ignored.

The materials thus purchased by and supplied to the State Printing Office were grossly inferior in character and were purchased at prices far in excess of what materials of better quality would cost in the open market.

In order to render ineffective the honest awarding of contracts in June, 1911, Shannon ordered in advance at exorbitant prices such quantities of materials that not only was all of the available space in the building and warehouse used by the State Printing Office taxed to its utmost capacity, but a private warehouse was rented and filled with some of the materials. Other portions of the materials thus ordered were exposed to the elements because of lack of proper accommodations.

ROYALTIES.

The royalties paid to the owners of copyrights exceed in the aggregate $40,000 per annum. This element of cost in the state text books could be greatly reduced by the purchase outright by the State of manuscripts or by the securing of expert service directly or under competition, in compiling text books for use in the public [illegible] to be the maximum strength to the limit of [illegible] by the [illegible] Story.

ADOPTION OF TEXT-BOOKS

Under the provisions of the Constitution it was the duty of the State Board of Education to select and adopt a uniform series of text-books for use in the common schools. The selection of these books was practically committed by the board to three of its members, organized as a text-book committee, with a paid secretary, which committee conducted a preliminary investigation and submitted its recommendations to the entire board for final action.

As a result of the investigation, this committee finds that:

1. On certain subjects required to be taught in the common schools, no text-books have been adopted or provided.

2. In the adoption of a series of books upon one topic, such as history or geography, the board frequently selected an elementary work prepared by one author, and an advanced work, prepared by another with the result that there was no general plan of presenting the entire subject, and no harmonious relation between the books comprising the series.

3. In the majority of cases, adoption of books by the board was more or less a perfunctory matter. Meetings of the board and also of the text-book committee were held infrequently, and only a very small amount of the time, relatively, of the members was given to this most important function. On the other hand, in the few instances where serious difference arose over adoption, long delays ensued. The interest of the pupils was practically ignored, and the methods finally used to secure a decision, in one recent case at least, were reprehensible.

4. In the preparation of the list of books approved for use in the high schools of the State no attempt was made by the board to secure indifferently all to recommend the best book. On the contrary, the list included practically every text-book published upon each subject embraced in such list.

In justice to the members of the former State Board of Education, the legal existence of which was terminated by the adoption of the constitutional amendment referred to, it is but proper to state that because of the attention which each member was obliged to give to the particular office or school with which he was connected and to which he was giving his best thought and his close attention it was practically impossible for him to devote to the business of the State Board of Education the time necessary to conduct the business of that board as was required by the laws of the State.

ADVISABILITY OF FREE TEXT-BOOKS AND OF STATE PRINTING OF SUCH BOOKS

With the adoption at the last election of the amendment to the Constitution providing for free text-books, the people of the State, by a vote of more than two to one, declared in favor of the reorganization of the State Board of Education and in favor of a uniform series of text-books, to be furnished and distributed free to all children in the elementary schools of the State. Therefore, the requirement of a recommendation from this committee upon the advisability of amending Section 7 of Article IX of the Constitution, so as to provide free text-books in such schools, had already been acted upon and adopted by the people by the above emphatic majority, which also carries the approbation of the people of the policy of printing such uniform series of text-books at the State Printing Office.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Your committee recommends:

1. That such appropriate legislation be enacted during this session of the Legislature as will not only require the attendance of witnesses before special committees of the Senate or the Assembly during the session of the Legislature and after such Legislature shall have adjourned, but which shall empower the Senate or Assembly to confer upon any such committee or committees full power and authority to punish for contempt of such committee or committees of the branch of the Legislature by which such committee or committees shall have been appointed any witness who shall refuse to appear before such committee or committees in response to any subpœna served upon him, or who, after appearing before such committee or committees, shall refuse to answer questions that have been propounded to him which, in the judgment of such committee or a majority thereof, are material to the subject matter being investigated, or who shall refuse to produce for the inspection of such committee such documentary evidence as in the judgment of such committee, or a majority of the members thereof, is material to the investigation.

2. That a State Board of Education shall be established. The majority of the members of your committee favor the establishment of a board of seven lay members; one member of your committee favors the establishment of a board of five lay members, to be appointed by the Governor of the State, who shall serve without compensation. The members of said State Board of Education shall be entitled to receive their actual expenses while engaged in the discharge of the duties pertaining to their office. No person shall be eligible to appointment who, at the time of his appointment is holding any salaried educational position in the State of California, nor shall any member of the State Board of Education be permitted, during his term of office, to occupy any other educational position in this State. Such board shall

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 9.

Relative to the continuance by the United States of the government line of steamers from eastern seaports to Colon, in the "canal zone," and the extension thereof to Pacific seaports, on the western coast of the United States, on the completion of the Panama Canal.

WHEREAS, There is maintained and operated by the United States from eastern seaports of our country to Colon, in the "canal zone," a government line of steamers for the transportation of freight consisting of supplies for use in the construction of the Panama Canal, and of certain merchandise for the Pacific Coast States, the latter transshipped from Avon on the western end of the government railways across the Isthmus of Panama, to steamers operated by private corporations, plying between Avon and Pacific coast ports; and

WHEREAS, On the completion of said canal, public interests and the necessities of those interested in western commerce, demand that the government owned vessels now in the service on the Atlantic side, be not only continued in operation as now, but extended to Pacific seaports, on the western coast of the United States; and

WHEREAS, The failure to so continue and extend such government service would reopen the struggle between the producers and shippers of California and sister states, on the one side, and the steamship companies acting in concert with the transcontinental railways on the other; and thus, to a great extent, restore the unfavorable conditions, that will, in the future, and as they were, in the past, be manipulated and controlled by transcontinental railways and their allies; and

WHEREAS, The experience of our producers and shippers in the past and recently in connection with a steamship line not enjoying the favors of the transcontinental railway lines and their allies, doing business on the Pacific side of the canal, should warn these in authority and the people, to avoid a similar danger in the future, particularly when its repetition will greatly impair the benefits that should accrue to them and to the country at large, by the construction and operation of such canal under the auspices of the Government of the United States; and

WHEREAS, The early completion of the Panama Canal should urge quick action on the subject-matter of these resolutions; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly, That the Legislature of the State of California respectfully urge upon the Congress of the United States, to enact such legislation as will continue after the completion of the Panama Canal, such Government line of steamers, and extend their service, with such additional steamers and facilities as may be necessary, to Pacific seaports, on the western coast of the United States; be it further

ROBERT M. GRANT.

Senator Campbell explained his vote as follows:

I voted "aye" on the motion made by the decision of the Chair for the purpose [illegible]

I believe that ordinarily the Chair was correct in the ruling that I [illegible] from the statement of said Senator [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] may do great harm if invoked in the future when some matter of great public interest might be before this body. I was also influenced in my vote against the Chair because of the unfair ruling of the Chair in refusing to recognize Senator Wright when he was clearly entitled to the floor. Senator Wright, as every Senator knows, and as I believe the Chair well knows, was first on the floor and first spoke to the President, but the Chair refused to recognize him (even though he was a member of the Committee on Federal Relations that had reported the resolution out of that committee to this body), and recognized another Senator who arose afterwards and who was clearly not entitled to recognition by the Chair. This arbitrary action on the part of the Chair impressed me as being a pre-arranged affair with the Chair and I considered it absolutely unfair and unjust and a violation of the rights of every Senator upon this floor. It has established a dangerous precedent of arbitrary rule by the Chair, sustained by the majority, in a body where, as one of the minority, I recognize no Senator as having superior rights on the floor over any other Senator.

A. E. CAMPBELL.

Senator Juilliard explained his vote as follows:

I voted not to sustain the President in his action or ruling that Senate Joint Resolution No. 13, continued to this day and regularly on the file for final passage, was subject to a motion to lay the same on the table. If it was the purpose of the motion to prevent and stifle debate, and it was so stated that such was the purpose—then the proper motion was a motion for the previous question.

The motion to lay on the table is not debatable nor subject to amendment, it is used to temporarily postpone the subject-matter and is sometimes used, and now so generally accepted, for the purpose of arbitrarily and finally disposing of the subject-matter.

If the desire was to postpone action on the resolution, then the usual and proper motion was to postpone. But the harsh motion or course was pursued, contrary to the intent of the Constitution and contrary to the usual course and practice. I therefore believe that such motion was and is out of order, for the proper remedy is open and plain. I also disagree with the order or ruling whereby a member of this body was removed from the Senate Chamber, during the debate and consideration of this matter.

In my judgment, the motion to lay on the table is entirely irregular and out of order. To hold that the same is in order is too dangerous a procedure and precedent to follow and establish.

L. W. JUILLIARD.

Senator Sanford explained his vote as follows:

I appealed from the decision of the Chair because a "gentleman's agreement" was entered into on Thursday to send Senate Joint Resolution No. 13 back to committee for amendment, that amendments be made and the whole subject-matter be taken up Friday for a free and open discussion. This agreement was violated by the majority. The ruling of the Chair would establish "gag" rule and thus stifle debate. If the Chair makes a ruling that will prevent the free discussion of any matter, the Senate has a right to reject that ruling and make one itself that would expedite business and permit of free discussion. The Senate is presumed to be a deliberative body and every matter that comes before it should receive the thoughtful and careful consideration of every member. When the Chair makes a ruling that stifles free speech, it is the duty of the Senate to reverse that ruling and make a proper one. I voted to reverse the Chair for that reason.

J. B. SANFORD.

Senator Campbell explained his vote as follows:

In explanation of my attitude during the consideration of the so-called Sanford Works joint resolution, I will state that when I was called upon to discuss the resolution upon its first consideration in the Senate, I stated candidly that I was not particularly interested in the subject-matter thereof, nor did I consider some of the language therein appropriate to be used as an instrument tool as the Congress of the United States. But in view of the efforts of the then floor leader to stop debate, I did feel an interest in not establishing a precedent for future action in this body.

During many years of experience in both houses of the Legislature of this State, I did not feel that such a precedent should be initiated and I desired to resist its introduction at the time. I did not then think, nor do I now think, it right that in a government like ours any political party or its representatives should gloss debate in a fair field on any question that may be presented for consideration.

On the first day of the consideration of said resolution, the debate was participated in by most of the members and the line of debate of some of the members was interrupted by questions of points of order. In each instance where the point of order was made the member against whom it was made was permitted to reply thereto. On the second day, when an appeal from the decision of the Chair was

ASSEMBLY JOINT RESOLUTION No. 10.

Relative to Irish home rule.

WHEREAS, After years of adversity, work and hope, but never of despair, on the part of the Irish nation, the British House of Commons recently passed the Irish Home Rule Bill, thereby recognizing the eternal truth that an intelligent people should be sovereign in governmental affairs which concern themselves; and

WHEREAS, It is meet that on the great occasion of the granting of Irish home rule that the fairest of all free States, California, should extend its hearty congratulations to the Irish people, and in the British House of Commons which granted the same; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California and the Senate, conjointly, constituting the Legislature of the State of California, That we hereby extend on behalf of the State, our hearty congratulations to the Irish people on their restored assumption of powers and responsibilities, and to the British nation for the act of frank justice rendered.

Resolved, That the Governor of California be and he is hereby requested to transmit a certified copy of these resolutions to the Hon. John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish party, and to Premier Asquith of the British Parliament.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution.

Senator Curtin addressed the Senate as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT AND FELLOW MEMBERS: Might I ask the indulgence of this body for a short time to give expression to a few words on the subject of this resolution, "Relative to Irish Home Rule?"

My friends, there is no country beneath the sun that has a better right to claim attention of any Legislature in the American Union than has dear old Ireland.

It is not my purpose at this time to occupy your attention with a history of Ireland. That history is undoubtedly familiar to us all. By way of introduction of the two names I shall refer to, I may say, that from early history until about the year 1800 Ireland had self-government, and she was a prosperous and happy land until England's complications with other nations brought about internal dissensions in Ireland—dissensions that rent her in twain—dissensions that separated the North from the South and left Ireland indeed unhappy. While in that deplorable state, her lamentable condition was taken advantage of and her sovereignty destroyed, and her right of self government was terminated about the year 1800 by acts of the British Parliament; and with unremitting energy she has ever since struggled to gain it back, and by this resolution we express our gratification on that her struggles seem soon to be fruitful. About the year 1803, a young man but then twenty-four years of age, wrote a declaration of principles for the future government of Ireland, if the efforts for her future government then being made were successful, and that declaration was called "The Provisional Government for the People of Ireland," and the man who wrote it was the immortal Robert Emmet. That declaration has been frequently referred to as "Emmet's Manifesto."

For that "offense," as it was then called, Emmet was charged with treason and his tragic end is the blackest spot in all England's history. At that time Emmet was her loneliness during his seclusion was the cause of his return to offer her consolation, her grief over his sad fate rendered her life truly sad. Her parents took her to France and to Italy, and all the crowned heads of Europe offered her consolation; but it was in vain. And why not in vain? No human plummet has ever sounded the depths of a woman's love. No surveyor's chain will ever mark the limits of a woman's patient devotion, and only the wings of the Archangel will ever transcend that pinnacle to which the sublime principle of self-sacrifice exalts a woman's soul. It was because of her noble attributes that the Bard of Ireland immortalized her in his beautiful poem, "She Is Far from the Land."

[illegible]

My friends, in those stirring times around the years 1800 and 1803, there is another name that was brought forth—a name that shines bright on the pages of Ireland's history—a name that is heard on the 17th day of every March in every land in the civilized world, and that name is James Napper Tandy, familiarly called Napper-Tandy. About that period there was formed in the city of Dublin a society called the United Irishmen. It had for its purpose the diffusion of education among all Irish subjects and to raise money and provide the means for restoration to Ireland of her right to self-government. Napper-Tandy was a member of that society. About that time the British Parliament had passed an Act making it a death penalty to float the green flag of Erin or to wear the Irish emblem—the shamrock.

For his part in that society Napper-Tandy was arrested, charged with treason. He was defended by John Philpot Curran, and on May 19, 1800, was acquitted. He was again arrested on a similar charge, and seeing no justice to be had before a corrupt court and a packed jury, he pleaded guilty to the charge and in April, 1801, was sentenced to death; but his sentence was commuted and he was exiled to France, where he died on August 24, 1803.

Fellow Senators, within the phraseology of our national anthem, "The Star-Spangled Banner," abides a sentiment that finds a responsive throb in the heart of every American wherever it is sung. It writes the history of our country as to the year 1812. Out of veneration to the "Stars and Stripes" we rise and do it homage. In Ireland's anthem, "The Wearing of the Green," abides a sentiment that strikes a responsive chord in the heart of every man, woman and child through whose veins flows even one drop of Irish blood. It writes Ireland's history as it was in 1800, and in it is a beautiful tribute to America. It is because of its beautiful sentiments that I shall crave your indulgence while I recite it:

THE WEARING OF THE GREEN

O Paddy, dear, and did you hear the news that's going round?
The shamrock is forbid by law to grow on Irish ground;
St. Patrick's Day no more we'll keep; his colors can't be seen;
For there's a bloody law against the wearing of the green.
I met with Napper-Tandy, and he took me by the hand,
And he said, "How's poor old Ireland, and how does she stand?"
She's the most distressful country that ever yet was seen;
They are hanging men and women for the wearing of the green.

Oh, if the color we must wear is England's cruel red,
Sure Ireland's sons will ne'er forget the blood that they have shed.
You may take the shamrock from your hat and cast it on the sod,
But 'twill take root and flourish there, though under foot 'tis trod,
When law can stop the blades of glass from growing as they grow,
And when the leaves in summer-time their verdure dare not show,
Then I will change the color I wear in my cauheen;
But till that day, please God, I'll stick to wearing of the green.

But if at last our color should be torn from Ireland's heart,
Her sons with shame and sorrow from the dear old isle will part;
I've heard a whisper of a country that lies beyond the sea,
Where rich and poor stand equal in the light of freedom's day.
O Erin, must we leave you, driven by a tyrant's hand?
Must we ask a mother's blessing from a strange and distant land?
Where the cruel cross of England shall nevermore be seen,
And where, please God, we'll live and die still wearing of the green.

Mr. President and fellow-members, who is there in all these United States who would raise a voice against an Irishman floating the green flag or wearing the green in our glorious land of the free? When the war of the revolution was over, and Benjamin Franklin was the first American minister to England, the British minister asked him this question: "Please, Sir Franklin, state the different nationalities in the American army in the war of the revolution." Think of his reply, which is a matter of record today. His answer was, "Sixty-seven per cent Irish, twenty-two per cent other nationalities, and eleven per cent native born." Think of it, my friends, it was sixty-seven per cent Irishmen who raised the American flag in victory at the battle at Lexington and who went down with it in defeat at Bunker Hill. It was

Fellow Senators, at the battle of Fredericksburg John Boyle O'Reilly dedicated a poem in which this verse occurs:

"O God, what a pity," they cry in their cover,
As rifles are reached and bayonets made ready,
"'Tis Meagher and his fellows, their caps have green clover;
'Tis Greek to Greek now for the rest of the night."

Twelve hundred the column, their rent flag before them,
With Meagher at their head, they have dashed at the hill.
Their foemen are proud of the country that bore them;
But, Irish in love, they are enemies still.

Out rings the fierce word: "Let them have it." The rifles
Are emptied point-blank in the hearts of the foe;
It is green against green, but a pin neath smiles
The Irishman's love in the Georgian's blow.

The column has reeled, but it is not defeated.
In front of the guns they reform and attack;
Six times they have done it, and six times retreated:
Twelve hundred they came, and two hundred go back.

Two hundred go back with the chivalrous story;
The wild day is closed in the night's solemn shroud;
A thousand lie dead, but their death was a glory
That calls not for tears—the Green Badges are proud.

Fellow Senators, was it not the son of an Irishman, that intrepid little Phil Sheridan, to whom Grant said with reference to Winchester, "Go in," and post haste didn't he ride that fifteen miles and "go in"? And didn't he lead his division of the Union army to victory at Perrysville and Stone River? Was it not the son of an Irishman, Major General Edward O. Ord, who led his army to victory at Dranesville, Vicksburg, Fort Harrison and Petersburg? Why, sirs, you could call the roll of honor until the last name was recited, and proud none would you place a laurel where it would shine brighter than on those of Irish blood.

When the war was over, in appreciation of his splendid services, President Grant appointed Meagher the first Governor of Montana territory, and while coming down the Missouri River on the night of July 4, 1867, he accidentally fell overboard, and with one splash of waters was body passed from sight and that finished scholar, that brilliant orator, that brave soldier, Thomas Francis Meagher, was no more. Today, in the city of Butte, Montana, stands a heroic statue to his memory.

Now, fellow Senators, if I have occupied too much of your time in these busy moments I trust I may be pardoned. It is to me the proudest privilege in my years of service here. My great-grand-uncle, Commodore John Barry—an Irishman to the core, and for whom I was named, and for whom my only son is named—is the accredited founder of the American navy. He won the first and also the last naval victory in the War of the Revolution, and hence hands erected o'er his grave in Philadelphia a beautiful monument, and the Congress of the United States, without a dissenting vote, appropriated sixty thousand dollars to erect, and did erect, in the grounds of the national capitol at Washington, a heroic statue to the memory of Commodore John Barry. I had another uncle, Andrew Corcoran, who was on a British battleship at Quebec when the call to aid the American Union was in the city of Dublin in 1861, and he responded to that call and was with Admiral Farragut when he cut the cable of locks that suspended sons had stretched across the Mississippi River; and therefore I respond cheerfully to that sentiment:

"No matter where in any land the Irish race are seen
Their one and only thought is on that little isle so green."

To dear old Ireland, I can with much feeling devote time to do her reverence. Although many of you may not be of her faith or descend from her people, yet you can join in a slight way toward expressing good will and a fond hope for her deliverance, and thus show that we are interested in her common welfare.

On every field of American war their blood has been shed in our defense.

There is no instance where an Irish sword has been drawn against an American soldier.

Ireland has given us the brightest lights that adorn our legal profession, and has given us those who are among the highest type of our citizenship and the noblest mothers in our land.

She has contributed unsparingly her children to enrich our literature.

She has sent the ministers of her faith to spread among us the truth of the gospel and the precepts of her holy religion.

John Philpot Curran, one of the most brilliant and gifted advocates, orators and patriots of the Irish, or any other race, has been glowingly referred to.

Many years ago, when a young man, I was admonished by a scholarly stranger, an exile from Erin, that no lawyer's library was complete without a copy of Curran's speeches. I have the same in my library, a most cherished volume.

He, too, was a champion of liberty and those oppressed.

But Mr. President, one name, not mentioned by Senator Curtin, I deem necessary to pronounce—Daniel O'Connell, the great Irish agitator, who, year after year, leaped high the fire upon the altar of Irish liberty.

When a boy, I had the exquisite pleasure of hearing one of America's greatest lovers of liberty, one of her greatest advocates, Wendell Phillips, in his lecture on Daniel O'Connell.

I heard this great orator say of the great Irishman:

"I have heard all the great orators of England and America. I have heard the great Webster, the fascinating Clay, the ponderous logician, Calhoun—and Daniel O'Connell combined the commanding qualities of all."

But why point out today the individual stars of Ireland's galaxy?

The Irish soldier has fought the battle of liberty on every field. And America has been the exemplar and incarnation of his desire and his hope.

The beckoning star of America has been his compelling lure. And every of the battle fields of this republic in defense of the liberties of man has been drenched in his blood, as the tree of liberty, watered and nourished by them.

Mr. President, Senator Curtin has told you of the patronage of Irish soldiery in the American army, marching and fighting for American liberty, from Lexington to Yorktown.

He has told you of the Sixty-ninth New York at Bull Run; he has told you of Phil Sheridan at Winchester; but even as eloquent as he was in the year a glimpse of the incomparable services of the Irish soldier from Sumter to Appomattox.

Ireland is come into her own. We extend our congratulations. We rejoice with her, and it is fitting, it is proper, to pause at this stage of the lawmaking activities of a great American state, to voice the appreciation of its Legislature and people for the marching, fighting, chivalrous, dauntless and indomitable people who are now achieving their hopes and realizing their lofty aspirations.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Senator Beban addressed the Senate on a question of personal privilege, as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE SENATE: I desire to rise to a question of personal privilege, because it has been charged that my part was in introducing the resolution for an investigation of women's wages and white slavery was to block the "red light" bill.

I have received a letter from Laura Bride Powers, who is a member of several prominent women's clubs and who lives in my district, which shows that I planned to introduce this resolution long before the beginning of this session, and before the introduction of the "red light" bill.

It is my belief that the "red light" bill is very drastic, and that we should look into it very carefully before we vote, but I have not yet declared myself either for or against the "red light" bill and my resolution did not in any way seek to injure the bill. I ask that the following letter from Mrs. Powers be printed in the Journal:

1242 TAYLOR STREET, SAN FRANCISCO.
Wednesday, March 12, 1913.

Hon. D. J. Beban, Sacramento, Cal.

MY DEAR SENATOR: In one of the papers I noted, a day or two ago, an unfair allusion to your resolution calling for an investigation into the wages of women.

I recall, and you will recall, a meeting of the Thirty-second Assembly District Club, during the campaign, where this very problem was up for discussion, as a public issue. On that occasion you pledged yourself publicly to do everything that you could do to help solve the problem, to support a minimum wage commission bill, or any legislation that would minimize the exploitation of women, thereby shutting off at least one avenue of supply for white slavers.

In view of that public declaration voluntarily made, I write this in a spirit of fair play, to protest against the assertion that your resolution has an ulterior and unholy motive.

Permit me to add that I heartily endorse your attitude, and stand ready any time to attest to your public pronouncement made months ago.

Much success to you.

Very truly yours,

LAURA BRIDE POWERS.

P. S.—You are at liberty to use this in any manner you wish.

Motion carried.

Austin, March 11, 1913.

Hon. S. W. Thompson, Chairman Committee on Revision and Publication Senate Chamber, Austin, Texas.

DEAR SIR: At the request of many counties in the Panhandle in considering Senate Bill No. 386, and other bills of like nature, to make the property valuations fixed and made the equal of the assessments of counties for the use for comparison in the apportionment of school property funds among counties.

The Constitution provides that "Every law shall embrace but one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title." It seems to me a refinement of argument to say that the purpose of the bill is to equalize taxes, when the effect of the enactment of such a law would be to increase taxes in many counties.

The purpose of this provision was to see that the Legislature does not act in the dark, or that there secretly added to the law provisions apparently foreign to the purpose of the bill. I am sure when in the drafting of the constitution in which they the constitutional should be put there was no attempt to put in the bill for them and no other purpose of preventing misleading.

The term "uniform" is understood to mean the difference between the taxes which would have been levied on valuations and the taxes which have been paid the taxes which would have had to pay with under the assessments that the tax paying of taxation was paid on them.

To compare the "uniform" and "equal" as the case may be applied to assessments we must see what the state sets as standards which have been used the old system there to have and also what the county would "equal" and "uniform" would have been under the new assessments. These estimates have been called for and the [illegible]

It is admitted that it is impossible to compare these taxes exactly because the change in the tax system has necessarily influenced the decision of the Legislature and of the assessors as to the amount of money that have appropriated. It also influenced the amount taken of property for purposes of taxation.

In the following computations the assumption has been made that the taxes actually charged up in 1911 and 1912 are the amounts which would have been paid had the old system been in force.

Then the state levied in 1911 $10,000,000 and in 1912 $10,000,000 to cover ordinary purposes and [illegible] which were not the part of the ad valorem taxes. These were divided by the state apportionment and of the state were allowing five per cent for delinquency as the act has provided, gave the rates of .5625 and .56 for $100 for 1911 and 1912 respectively.

These rates differ from those used in estimating the taxing power in the report of the joint special [illegible] Legislature and in the two reports submitted to these rates the assessments made under Chapter 125 and 60 of the Statutes of 1911 were adopted from the total taxes charged up. It is held by the Supreme Court with the approval of the Attorney General, that these taxes should not be collected and that the taxes there mentioned were as near as to these rates are concerned.

In like manner the assessments which have been made from the amounts of county taxes actually charged up to the tax collectors as reported to the Comptroller in October.

In the case of counties creating a [illegible] the taxes the taxes that have not collected as a part of the county revenue and added in with the taxes. This is done under the assumption that if no taxes had been paid the taxes levied would have been larger.

To ascertain the comparative taxes the first step is to divide the total real taxes levied by the sum of: (1) the assessed to private property plus (2) the assessed (withdrawn) [illegible] property, as to the real property which would have been subject to these taxes. This gives a percentage real tax rate. The second step is to divide the difference between the total taxes levied and the real taxes by the total county rail operative and non-operative property together. This gives the assessed five "uniform" county tax rate. By adding these two together we obtain the assessed "uniform" county tax rate.

An example will make the method clear. In 1912 Bexar County had a total assessment roll of $25,465,067, of which $10,208,024 was taxable for local purposes and $5,871,373 was the operating property withdrawn because taxable only for state purposes. The gross saving to the people of Butte County by the absence of the state tax was therefore 38 cents on $19,598,624, or $74,474.77. In the same year Butte County raised $60,059.36 for roads. The "outside" non-operative property upon which these taxes were collected amounted to $15,164,840. Add to that $5,373,389 for the operative "outside" property, we have a total of $20,538,229, which under the old system would have borne these taxes. To have raised $60,059.36 on $20,538,225 would have required a road tax rate of $0.2953 per $100. The county taxes other than the road tax amounted to $304,954.58. This divided by the total roll, operative and non-operative together, gives what the inside tax rate would have been under the old system, or $1.1973 per $100.

The constructive road tax rate	$0.2953
Plus the constructive inside tax rate	1.1973
Gives the constructive outside tax rate	$1.4926

The gross loss is found by applying these rates to the railroad property withdrawn from county tax rates. Thus, to continue the example, in Butte County the railroad property inside incorporated cities was assessed at $217,958, which at $1.1973 would have paid to the county $2,609.61. The inside or $3,757,351 at $1.4926, $56,082.22, total taxes lost on railroads, $58,691.83. As the state tax saved was $74,471.71 it is seen that there was in this county no "net loss" but a "net gain" of $15,782.94, when the loss occasioned by the withdrawal of railroad property is considered, although because of other classes of property being withdrawn that county suffers an apparent loss.

In the foregoing explanation and example the county assessed value of property has been used. There is, however, a very serious question as to the justice of that method between the different counties. The question is as to whether an equalized value should not be used in computing the gain or loss. Thus, if in one county the property taxed locally is assessed at 60 per cent of the true value and in another county property is assessed at 25 per cent, the amount of the state tax saved is artificially lessened in the second case and artificially increased in the first case. The constructive county tax rates are at the same time artificially raised in the second case and lowered in the first and consequently the second county may show a net loss, when, as a matter of fact, it would show no loss at all if the two counties were assessed on the same basis.

To illustrate: Let us assume that property is assessed at 50 per cent of its true value on the average throughout the State. A given county has, say, $20,000,000 of property assessed at $5,000,000, or 25 per cent. At 40 cents the state tax saved would be reckoned at $20,000. If assessed at 50 per cent, or $10,000,000, the state tax saved would have been $40,000, a difference of $20,000, which is easily large enough to turn an apparent loss into a gain. Conversely, if the county were assessed at, say, 80 per cent of the true value, or $16,000,000, the state tax saved would apparently be $64,000. Thus we might have the different gross savings of $20,000, $40,000 and $64,000.

It has been ascertained by this board that property in this State is assessed, on the average, at a little over 45 per cent of its true value. Some counties are assessed below and others above that amount.

Computations are submitted herewith showing how the gain or loss appears when the assessed valuations are equalized. Thus Butte County, used as an example above, showed in 1912 a net gain of $15,782.94 unequalized and $98,134.47 if equalized, because assessed below the average of the State. Sierra County shows a net gain of $2,577.08 unequalized and a net loss of $4,070.62 equalized, because assessed above the average of the State.

In 1911 the Legislature made appropriations to reimburse counties for the net loss occasioned by the withdrawal of railroad taxes as follows:

Imperial	$21,034
Madera	2,478
Nevada	5,861
Placer	26,394
San Bernardino	52,987
Siskiyou	5,045
Yuba	7,172

These figures were made on the basis of the taxes and assessments of 1910, no others being available at the time the [illegible]. By the next year the figures in the [illegible] had changed and [illegible] 1912.
